Pope Asks Germany to Cease Sabotage in Ruhr

VATICAN TAKES ACTION TO BREAK RUHR DEADLOCK

Information Obtained at Vatican by Semi-Official Organ of Italy Covers
Instructions to Nuncio.

KRUPP SEIZURE IS NOT SUBSTANTIATED

Reports From Berlin on Occupancy of the Krupp
Works Based on Seizure of Small Branch.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Rome, July 2.—The Stefani Agency, semi-official organ, declares that, according to information obtained at the Vatican, Pope Pius has instructed the papal nuncio in Berlin to make representations to the German government with a view to securing cessation of the passive resistance in the Ruhr.

The pope's message to the nuncio makes reference to the Duisburg outrage and says:

"While the Holy Father by his letter is endeavoring to induce the powers to arrive at a friendly understanding, he begs them to suspend any action which may prevent it and deeply regrets to hear of any acts of sabotage in the occupied territories and other crimes, under the pretext of passive resistance. The pope charges you to make vigorous representations to the German government that it may once for all condemn such criminal resistance, which is condemned by the Holy Father himself."

Small Seizure Causes Scare.

Dusseldorf, July 2.—Reports from Berlin stating that the capital was greatly excited by messages saying the Krupp works at Essen had been taken over by the French caused surprise in the Ruhr. The basis of the reports apparently was the seizure of a comparatively small branch of the Krupp Locomotive works at Segeroth, near Essen.

Premier Baldwin Silent.

London, July 2.—Several members of the house of commons tried unsuccessfully this afternoon to draw from Prime Minister Baldwin some information regarding the negotiations with France and on kindred subjects.

Edmund D. Morel, labor member for Dundee, asked whether the government was prepared to take the initiative with the United States to convene a conference of the powers with a view to protecting civilian populations from the consequences of aerial warfare.

"In my view," replied the premier, "it would be premature to hope for the successful issue of such a conference until a number of outstanding matters which remain unsettled in Europe are settled."

To a question from Brigadier General Edward L. Spear, liberal member for Leicestershire, regarding the possibility of giving a speedy reply to the German reparations note owing to the dangerous economic position of Germany, Mr. Baldwin said: "The government is fully alive to the gravity of the situation and is doing what it can to expedite matters."

There is no mark in history which tells when the first cup of tea was brewed. But according to a Chinese legend, the virtues of tea were discovered by Emperor Chin-nung about 2737 B. C.

The progressive housewife of today readily sees the virtues of the Want-ads. She uses them as daily aids.

MOTHER OF SIX CHILDREN SLAIN BY CHICAGO THUGS

Chicago, July 2.—Mrs. Peter Triola, 35 years old, was shot and killed by two men last night as she walked with her husband in Chicago heights. The assassins escaped and the police have been unable to explain the slaying. She was the mother of six children.

HOSPITAL PATIENT INSTANTLY KILLED IN 5-STORY FALL

Mrs. Myrtle Craig, of Atlanta, Had Been Under Treatment at Wesley Memorial Hospital Since June 20.

Mentally deranged as the result of a nervous breakdown, Mrs. Myrtle Craig, aged 40, of 490 Ponce de Leon avenue, a patient at Wesley Memorial hospital since June 20, late Monday afternoon leaped from the window of her room on the fifth floor of the hospital to instant death in the court below.

Mrs. Lepta Morehead, her mother, with whom she makes her home, had just left the room and was preparing to leave the hospital when the patient plunged from the ledge.

Blame Halted. Hospital attaches expressed the belief that Mrs. Craig took her life while laboring under an hallucination. It is said that since entering the institution she has been subject to periods of temporary derangement.

William J. Craig, husband of the deceased and a former Atlanta business man, now living in Jacksonville, Fla., was notified of the tragedy Monday night. Three sons, Roland, Burton and Carlton, are also said to be in Jacksonville.

It is stated that the Craigs moved to Jacksonville more than three months ago. Two weeks later Mrs. Craig is said to have returned to Atlanta, on the verge of a nervous breakdown.

Hospital officials endeavored for several hours Monday to locate the DeKalb county corner. At a late hour he had not been reached and it was then believed that an inquest would not be necessary, although hospital attaches said that they are not yet able to say whether or not there had been an eye witness to the fatal leap.

Seemed Rational.

According to Mrs. Morehead, her daughter had shown no sign of undue depression during their conversation of the afternoon. In fact, she said, Mrs. Craig seemed to be in a rational state of mind and to be much improved.

W. E. Floding, a family friend of long standing, told a Constitution reporter that he had taken Mrs. Craig for an automobile ride Sunday for about an hour and she had appeared greatly improved, and had seemed to enjoy the trip immensely.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later through Barclay & Brandon.

ICE CREAM LURE LANDS HUSBAND IN POLICE COURT

Chicago, July 2.—Howard Gaskell succumbed to the lure of ice cream sodas and landed in domestic relations court before Judge Haas Monday.

His wife complained that he brought ice cream home to the children late at night, preventing them and her from sleeping.

White-Haired Woman With Crime Record Faces Larceny Charge

New York, July 2.—Mrs. Anna L. Vogel, a white-haired woman of 70, with dignified dress and demeanor, today was held in $2,500 bail on a larceny charge, while she listened smilingly to her record of seven convictions over a period of 30 years.

Today's charge, made by Mrs. Mathilda Jacobson, a rooming-house keeper, was that the mild old lady had swindled her out of $100 in a stock transaction.

Mrs. Vogel had been released from the work house only yesterday.

Signalman's Mistake Results in Collision On French Railway

Cherbourg, July 2.—A special train carrying 150 passengers from the steamer Anadina, from Montreal, collided today with a stationary train at Caen, owing to a signalman's mistake. Many persons on the stationary train were injured, but not one of the Anadina special was hurt.

LIVERPOOL ADOPTS WORLD STANDARDS IN COTTON TRADE

Final Barrier to Universal Standards Proposed by American Producers and Traders Removed.

RECOMMENDATIONS OF BOARD ACCEPTED

Representatives of Liverpool Association Being Sent to U. S. to Arrange Modifications.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Washington, July 2.—Establishment of universal standards for cotton, for which American producers and traders have striven for the last 10 years, has been accomplished, the Liverpool Cotton association having adopted today the international agreement reached at a conference at the department of agriculture here last month. Other foreign nations represented at the conference previously had ratified the agreement.

A cablegram from the Liverpool association received by the department of agriculture said the association in general meeting today agreed to the recommendations of its board of directors that the proposals be accepted.

The agreement provides that the official cotton standards of the United States for grade and color be recognized as universal standards and that the members of the Liverpool board of appeals be invested with authority to finally determine the true classification in accordance with United States standards, of cotton of American growth.

The Liverpool Cotton association gave notice in their cablegram that they desired to have certain changes made in the universal standards. Since the new cotton standards law requires that the changes proposed be agreed upon a year in advance of the time when they go into effect, the Liverpool association announced it was sending C. H. Taylor and J. C. Finlay to the United States to confer with representatives of the cotton trade and officials of the department of agriculture upon the proposed modifications.

AUTO COMMITTEE FACES PROBLEM

Transportation for Elks
Must Be Provided, Says
Chairman A. I. May, in Plea for Assistance.

WOMAN'S CLUB AIDS ELKS

Fitting out two rooms upstairs in the handsome Woman's Club building for use during the Elks' convention, Mrs. Alonzo Richardson last night announced that living quarters will be provided therein for the seven young women who will come to Atlanta to ride on the elaborate peach float that will represent the Valdosta, Ga., lodge in the great pageant.

Two downstairs rooms in the Woman's Club building will also be furnished and placed at the disposal of the Elks, said Mrs. Richardson.

Opening an office at 180 West Peachtree street, Chairman Arthur I. May, of the automobile committee of the 1923 B. P. O. E. convention board, is making strenuous efforts to secure every available automobile that can be secured for use of the Elks, who will begin to arrive in Atlanta during the latter part of the present week to attend the grand lodge reunion and convention that is to be held here July 9-14.

"It is our purpose," said Mr. May, Monday afternoon, "to give the Elks a most enjoyable time during the convention, and for that reason we wish to offer them every thing a guest would naturally expect from his host. We want to meet all visitors at the terminals, transport them to their lodgings, and then have cars available for their use during the week, taking them to and from the various

LIQUOR BANDITS LOCK FAMILY IN CLOSET IN HOME

Chicago, July 2.—Six liquor bandits invaded the home of H. T. Hollingshead, a prominent business man, locked Mrs. Hollingshead, her daughter and two servants in a closet and robbed the house of liquor valued, according to the police, at $15,000.

TROLLEY SERVICE OF CITY HALTED BY HEAVY STORM

Collision of Two Street Cars, Filled With Passengers, Attributed to Monday's Terrific Rains.

One of the heaviest rains of the season swept down upon Atlanta early Monday night, resulting in temporary paralysis of electric service, a trolley collision, the collapse of a building, numerous derailments and slight damage to property.

The terrific rain started to fall at 7 o'clock and continued for almost half an hour, a brisk wind whipping the downpour into literal sheets of water. A brilliant electric display accompanied the rain. Sewers were over-flooded, the streets were covered with muddy torrents and considerable damage was done to gardens.

While official weather bureau reports were unobtainable, it was estimated that the precipitation would be in the neighborhood of an inch and a half.

With the exception of the Whitehall street and East Point lines, the entire trolley system was temporarily crippled by the tremendous downpour. A head-on collision between two Piedmont avenue cars which occurred at Piedmont avenue and Fourth street about 8 o'clock was directly attributed to the rain.

Washout Causes Crash.

A washout on an inbound track made it necessary for one of the inbound cars to return along the outbound track. At the intersection of Fourth street an outbound car crashed into it head-on before the motorman could bring it to a halt. Although both trolleys were filled with passengers, the only person found to be injured was a negro woman, who is said to have fractured an ankle. The front end of each car was badly damaged.

Due to accumulation of mud and sand and to water which flooded the low places, a total of six derailments occurred on the lines of the Georgia Railway and Power company, officials stated. Within a short time after the cessation of the rain work crews had replaced the trolleys on the rails in every instance.

Roof of Building Collapses.

The roof of a building at 45-47 North avenue collapsed Monday night under the weight of water that had accumulated on account of the drainage being stopped up, following the heavy rains. No one was injured, but the stores in the building suffered considerable damage. The building is owned by C. P. Byrd, and was occupied by the Gordon Dry Cleaning company and the grocery store of J. H. Kaiser.

The building is directly in the rear of a building on Peachtree street, which is occupied by a branch of the Fourth National bank on the first floor, and Garber's dance hall on the second floor. Immediately after the crash, hundreds of persons gathered on the scene.

Lightning struck the northwest corner of an apartment house at 26 Peachtree place during the storm early Monday night. Practically no damage was done.

The only call answered during the storm by the fire department was to Westminster Presbyterian church, on Ponce de Leon avenue, where the wind that accompanied the rain swept away a small section of the roof and caused some damage in the basement, which was practically flooded.

COMMITTEE LISTS READY FOR HOUSE AND SENATE TODAY

With Their Appointment Both Branches of the General Assembly Will Get Down to Real Work.

MEMORIAL SERVICES FOR WATSON DELAYED

Postponement Will Be Asked In House Today Because of Inability to Get Speakers Wanted.

Announcement of standing committees of the house and the senate will feature today's session of the general assembly. Another matter to be taken up by the house will be a report by a special committee appointed to make plans for a memorial service to the late Sen. T. E. Watson on July 4, recommending that the exercises be postponed until a more convenient date.

In both houses interest has centered for several days on committee appointments and speculation has been rife as to who would head the more important bodies.

It was reliably reported Monday night that the senate Tuesday for the most desirable chairmanships would be as follows:

Western and Atlantic—Rodwine, of the 20th; Georgia State sanitarian, Chastain, of the 41st; railroads, Moore, of the 7th; hygiene and sanitation, Green, 43rd; vice-chairman of the rules committee, which is steering body of senate, Pace, of the 13th; appropriations, Lanford, of the 15th; finance, which deals with all questions of taxation, Mason, of the 30th.

In the house J. H. Miller, of Dodge, already has been announced as vice chairman of the rules committee, which is the most sought-after position in the lower branch of the assembly. J. W. Culpepper, of Fayette county, is

BANK DIVIDENDS TOTAL $400,000

Excellent Business Reported By Leaders of Various Banking and Trust Companies.

Dividends totaling more than $400,000 have been declared by the various banks and trust companies of Atlanta and made public July 1.

The Atlanta Trust company announced that it has increased its dividend rate from 6 per cent to 8 per cent annually, payable semi-annually. The bank's capital some time ago was increased to $1,500,000, with a surplus of $300,000 and undivided profits aggregating $75,000.

The total amount involved in the dividend checks was $60,000. The bank's position is strongest in its history, according to Eugene R. Black, president, and savings deposits and all lines of activity of the institution have shown remarkable increase.

The Citizens and Southern bank has declared its regular 3 per cent quarterly dividend, the dividend bringing $90,000 to stockholders on a basis of a capital stock of $3,000,000.

The Lowry Bank and Trust company of Georgia, with a capital stock of $2,500,000, has declared its regular 4 per cent dividend, the amount involved being $100,000.

The Fourth National bank, with an announcement of its regular semi-annual dividend of 8 per cent, adds $96,000 to the dividend aggregate on a basis of a capital stock of $1,200,000.

The Fulton National bank, with $750,000 capital stock, has declared its usual 6 per cent annual dividend, payable semi-annually. Dividend checks amounting to $22,500. This institution reports deposits grown from $4,300,000 to more than $6,000,000 since it moved into its new quarters about a year ago, and officials state that savings deposits have increased by 100 per cent.

The Atlanta National bank announces its regular 4 per cent quarterly dividend. With a capital stock of $1,000,000, dividend checks from this bank total $40,000.

LEAPS 12 FLOORS; SURPRISED TO FIND HIMSELF ALIVE

New York, July 2.—After leaping from the twelfth floor of the Masonic Temple today, Mario Cidel was astounded and disappointed to find himself alive. He was removed to a hospital in a serious condition, refusing to give any reason for his act.

COUNTRY STIRRED BY BIG MEMORIAL STATES RANDOLPH

All Sections of Country Ready to Make Generous Gifts as Soon as Atlanta Raises Her Quota.

That Atlanta holds the key to the success of the Stone Mountain Confederate memorial, in that the money to be raised outside of Atlanta will be forthcoming immediately upon completion of the amount this city has been asked to subscribe, $250,000, was reiterated yesterday by Hollins N. Randolph, president of the association, on returning from a tour of a number of cities in the north and the northern tier of southern states.

Mr. Randolph found that people in Chicago, Cleveland, New York, Baltimore, Washington and other cities are as well, if not better, informed about the great project as the people of Atlanta, and that they are so enthusiastic over its magnitude that they are willing and ready to contribute liberally as soon as the association announces that Atlanta has done her part.

He further found that work on the gigantic hoisting machinery to place stone cutters, stone cutting implements, sculptors and assistant sculptors on the side of Stone Mountain, in large numbers, so as to speed up the completion of the work, is progressing rapidly in the great plant of the Brown Hoisting Machinery company in Cleveland. This machinery, representing a cost of $250,000, is to be donated to the memorial.

The Ohio State Federation of Women's Clubs has endorsed the memorial and pledged its members to raise a substantial amount in that state Atlanta's quota is completed.

Randolph's Statement. Mr. Randolph summed up the situation as he found it in the cities he visited in the following statement:

"I was greatly encouraged as a result of my visit to Washington, Baltimore, New York, Cleveland and Chicago, and I think all that is needed now to put this great project 'over the top' is for Atlanta and Georgia to complete their quotas to the monument fund. This is essential, however, in order that the people of the other states of the south and the people of the whole country may become convinced that the monument is going to be constructed and have faith in the ability of those who have been selected by the people of Atlanta, Georgia to carry on its construction. As soon as it can be announced that Atlanta and Georgia have subscribed their quotas, I now feel more than ever convinced that the other states of the south and of the nation will respond to the extent of contributing the balance of the funds which

Report Purchase Of Herrin Mine By Miners' Union

Springfield, Ill., July 2.—(By the Associated Press.)—Purchase of the strip mine at Herrin, Ill., about which rioting a year ago took a toll of twenty-two lives, was reported here today to have been effected by the Illinois mine workers, as a means of satisfying the heavy damage suits contemplated by W. J. Lester, owner of the mine. The report is unverified, but according to the information the price was $728,000.

Verifications of the reported purchase was delayed because of the unwillingness of other state officials of the mine workers to talk, in the absence of President Frank Farrington. Secretary Walter Nesbitt said the only announcement obtainable must come from President Farrington, whose whereabouts at this time, he said, he did not know.

IMPORTANT ISSUES ON LEAGUE AGENDA FOSTERED BY U. S.

Fight for Health, War On Epidemics, White Slave and Drug Traffic Major Projects.

SAARE JURISDICTION PRINCIPAL QUESTION

Report to Show Desire of United States to Co-Operate In Fight Against Epidemic.

Geneva, July 2.—The 25th session of the council of the league of nations opened Monday with the United States, although not a member, scheduled to play an important part.

Three American projects were before the meeting:

1. Investigation of international white slave traffic.

2. Suppression of international drug traffic.

3. Fight for health, and war on epidemics.

Ahead of these items on the agenda, however, was the pressing question of investigation of league jurisdiction in the rich Saare valley of Germany. The liberals won this point Monday, deciding in favor of England's demand to begin a public investigation of Saare conditions Tuesday.

Monday's session also discussed favorably the proposed $500,000 international loan to Greece. Colonel James Logan, American unofficial delegate, pledged American co-operation.

Report on Opium Traffic. The most important American project to come before the league is the report of the advisory commission on the opium traffic in which included the American program stipulating that the world's production of narcotic drugs should be limited to actual medical and scientific needs. The American proposal has already been adopted; it will probably be further discussed in the September assembly which all 53 member states are present.

The next American proposition is the resolution which Miss Grace Abbott, head of the department of women and child labor and American representative of the league's advisory commission for the suppression of the white slave traffic, introduced demanding that the council immediately appoint an international commission to investigate the present status of the trade in women.

Finally the council will be called upon to approve a report in which the United States, as a member of the old international health bureau, which since passed under the league of nations, has arranged to collaborate with the latter. This basis of United States participation in a third league activity was established during the recent visit of Surgeon General Cummings to the international health bureau at Paris. The report will show in detail the desire of the United States to co-operate to the fullest extent, especially in the league's world wide fight against epidemics.

PEOPLE TO DECIDE $2,000,000 BOND ISSUE ON SEPT. 5

Money Sheet, Originally Introduced by Committee, Passed, But Held Up By Move to Reconsider.

PERKERSON IS NAMED CITY TAX ASSESSOR

W. A. Hancock Succeeds Himself—No Opposition Develops to Plan to Annex Three Suburbs.

The people of Atlanta will vote on the $2,000,000 park bond issue September 5; the city of Atlanta will have to "pass the pay roll" on July 15; Harry M. Perkinson succeeds A. C. Burton, and W. A. Hancock succeeds himself as city tax assessors, as the result of actions taken by general council and the aldermanic board in regular session Monday afternoon.

Council also voted approval of the street committee's plans for construction of the Hunter street approach to the Spring street viaduct and for opening Broad street from Matchless street to Whitehall, and it reinstated a new list of pensioners recommended by Dr. J. P. Kennedy, city health officer.

The "passing of the pay roll" will be forced by Alderman Carpenter's action before the aldermanic board in moving to reconsider the finance sheet, thus holding up its adoption for two more weeks, after it had been passed by council and the aldermanic board in its annual form prepared by the finance committee and approved by Mayor Sims.

Annexation Movement.

The movement to extend the city limits to include East Point, College Park and Hapeville, was introduced in council by Alderman Ragdale and Councilman Cooper and was referred to a special committee authorized in the resolution introduced by Mr. Ragdale. Mayor Pro Tem Gordon, who was presiding, appointed Alderman Ragdale, Cochran and McLendon and Councilman Watkins and Dyer as a special committee to hold the necessary conferences with citizens of the affected suburbs and others, and to prepare the proper legislation to be submitted to council probably at its next session. There was no discussion on the movement.

An ordinance introduced by the finance committee, in line with its program of economy, to consolidate the plumbing department with the building inspector's department, was referred to the ordinance committee without discussion.

Mayor Sims' veto of the New York amendment to the planning commission ordinance, providing for ward representation, was sustained by council on the grounds suggested by Mayor Sims, that the original plan was to have the various trade, business and professional interests of the entire city represented, rather than sections of the city.

Having contracts voted by Mayor Sims were referred back to the street committee without debate.

Pension List Adopted.

The city pension list was reinstated.

DRY LAW REPEAL BILL EXPLAINED BY ARNOLD

Declaring that he has no desire nor intention to end prohibition in Georgia, but that he simply wants to clarify the enforcement laws on the question and remove all conflicting authority, Representative Craig Arnold, of Lumpkin county, on Monday gave out a statement in regard to the bill he proposes to introduce to repeal the Georgia prohibition law.

In his statement Dr. Arnold replies to the storm of criticism which the announcement of his proposed bill has aroused among churches, temperance organizations and other bodies, and declares that he will introduce the bill despite this opposition.

"There are 100 distinct enforcement organizations in the state now," said Dr. Arnold. "Some of these with the federal officers in an effort to seize contraband liquor first. Some are honestly trying their best to enforce the law, but others are practically ignoring it."

The Volstead act is a federal statute and it stands today as the supreme law on the subject. It provides an entirely different machinery for its own enforcement; it is complex and the machinery is complex. The state has no control over its own machinery of enforcement because the state of Georgia has absolutely no law enforcement powers or branch of government. That is totally and wholly with the individual counties. In one way of looking at it, we have 100 little law enforcement governments all within themselves and if one county sees fit to enforce the prohibition law and the adjoining county does not, it is a matter entirely up to the sheriff and county authorities of each of these counties.

The state, in point of actual fact, stands helpless to enforce the law, nor has it the power to remove him if he tells the state in so many words where to beat in and get off. That fact has been proven time and again.

Conflict of Authority. When the Georgia "bone dry" law was enacted an effort was made to create a state enforcement branch of the government and subsequent to that time at least one governor has recommended the creation of a state law enforcement body for the very reason that the state has no such machinery and that the head of the state government has no authority over the machinery for the enforcement of law which now exists. Then, in the face of this condition of affairs, the state has been presented with the spectacle of officers of one county going into another on prohibition cases and thereby getting up another conflict of state authority. They have gone from one to another either participating with or wring with federal power and again have set up a conflict of authority and at other times have at least raised legal questions.

Gasoline Consumers Should Be Protected, Says Commissioner

J. J. Brown, commissioner of agriculture, is planning to ask the legislature for authority to protect gasoline users of Georgia against short measure, according to a statement made by him Monday morning.

"This department will recommend," he said, "that it be empowered not only to protect the consumer against inferior grades of gasoline, but also against the possibility of short measure."

"The department of agriculture is going to urge the legislature to amend the present law by provision for the distillation test for gasoline, in accordance with the specifications of the bureau of mines of the federal government."

"Moreover, we are going to ask the assembly to empower the oil inspectors of the state to examine the gasoline pumps in use by the different merchants and filling stations that sell gasoline at retail to consumers. We propose to use an adequate penalty for the punishment of persons who are found to be giving short measure."

Commissioner Brown declared that he had heard many complaints of alleged short measure in the sales of gasoline.

"The department of agriculture is the servant of the people," he said. "We are anxious to afford them every protection possible, and I believe our corps of oil inspectors can perform a very useful service to the public in inspecting oil pumps at regular intervals."

E. P. ANSLEY WILL REST IN OAKLAND

Funeral services for Edwin P. Ansley, 58 years old, former Atlantan and one of the south's most prominent real estate men and developers, who died Monday morning at the Brunswick, Ga., hospital, following a stroke of paralysis last Tuesday, will held at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning at the chapel of H. M. Patterson & Son. Mr. Ansley, who retired in January from active business because of ill health, had been living at the Oglethorpe hotel. He was born in Augusta March 30, 1865, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse A. Ansley. In 1871 his parents moved to Atlanta, and then to Decatur in 1874, where he attended school. His first position was with his brother, F. J. Ansley, who was the first agent for the Georgia Pacific, now the Southern railway. Later he secured employment in the law office of Courtland Sims, at Brunswick. Mr. Ansley studied law at Athens, and after graduation was admitted to the bar, and associated himself with the law firm of Calhoun, King & Spalding in Atlanta. In 1890 he entered the realty field, going into the office of his brother, W. S. Ansley, who had offices in the building that formerly stood on the site of the Atlanta National Bank building. C. W. Ansley later entered the business and the partnership of Ansley Brothers was formed.

Eight years later, Mr. Ansley entered the real estate business independently, and almost immediately secured the right of way from Howell's station to Mitchell street, which was later taken over by the A., B. and A. railway. Mr. Ansley fostered the opening and development of Forsyth street as a cross-town thoroughfare, after having persuaded city council to regrade the street. Property values began to rise almost immediately after city council had consented to improve the street.

In 1902, Mr. Ansley, associated with Walter F. Andrews, E. L. Douglas, W. F. Winecoff and Hugh T. Inman, started the movement to develop Ansley park. Improvements, the cost of the land, and installation of conveniences at Ansley park amounted to approximately $1,000,000. Under the direction of the Ansley brothers, the amount to more than $1,800,000. It is now one of the residential showplaces of the city. After the development of the park had been gotten underway, Mr. Ansley bought the interests of his associates.

John Gilmore, Eugene R. Black, Dr. Wiley Ansley, Rutherford Lipscomb, James Walker Mason and J. H. Fowling will act as pallbearers. Interment will be private at Oakland cemetery. He is survived by his widow; two daughters, Mrs. J. R. McCarty and Mrs. Lewis Greer; two sons, Edwin P. Ansley, Jr., and Morris M. Ansley, of Washington, D. C.; William S. Ansley, of Atlanta, and William Ansley, of New York.

MAY BUILDING PERMITS SURPASSED BY JUNE

June building permits, with a total of $2,540,178, surpassed those of May by more than $100,000 it became known at the office of City Building Inspector Bowen Monday, when figures for the month were tabulated. May building permits amounted to $2,406,441. June, however, fell far short of the peak reached in April when permits amounted to $4,922,792.

The most important permit recorded for the last day of June was that for the $11,785 concrete bridge to be built on Elmore drive for the city of Atlanta by Paul Weskey, contractor.

Police Campaign Against Criminals During Convention

Police Chief James L. Beavers and Captain T. O. Sturdivant, of the detective department, Monday were engaged in formulating plans to rid the city of pickpockets, hold-up men and other thieves during the week of the Elks' convention. "Undoubtedly, one of the largest crowds ever in Atlanta will be here for this occasion," Chief Beavers stated, and added that he intended to leave nothing undone to insure all visitors of adequate police protection.

DISASTROUS FIRE SWEEPS LYERLY

Lyerly, Ga., July 2.—Lyerly was visited early this morning by the most disastrous fire in the town's history, damage estimated between $40,000 and $50,000 being caused when the entire east side of Alabama avenue was wiped out. The entire block consisted of frame buildings and the flames spread rapidly from one building to another until the entire business block was burned.

The buildings destroyed, and the probable amount of the losses, as estimated this morning were as follows:

John S. Clegburn & Co., general merchandise, $25,000.
Clegburn's Bargain annex, $6,000.
Clegburn's warehouses, two in number, $5,000.
Smith Printing company, $1,000.
Dr. H. D. Brown, office, $100.
Chambers Barber shop, $100.
Taylor's Meat market, $200.
Harrison Manufacturing company, floor sweep compound manufacturers, $1,000.

Two unoccupied buildings belonging to L. R. Poovey, $1,000.
The fire was discovered shortly after midnight by W. G. Whitlow, a citizen of the town, who chanced to wake and was attracted by the illumination. The alarm was given and the whole town was soon on the streets and a bucket brigade formed. But the efforts were of no avail as the frame buildings in the path of the fire were soon enveloped and only furnished material for the onrush of the flames.

The fire originated in the general mercantile store of John S. Clegburn & company, and was probably the work of burglars who fired the building to cover up their crime. The building was not on fire when people of the town returned to their homes about 9 o'clock after church services. An automobile was heard to stop near the Clegburn store shortly before midnight and it is believed that the occupants of this car are responsible for the fire, probably loading the car with merchandise and then applying the torch.

Less than $15,000 of the loss is covered by insurance, only the Clegburn store and the Smith Printing company having any insurance whatever. The remaining losses are total. Nothing was saved from the Clegburn general store, as this building was falling in when discovered. Only a few small articles were saved from the Clegburn Bargain annex, next door, formerly occupied by A. V. Shearer and E. A. Harrison.

The Harrison plant was to the rear of the Clegburn Bargain annex, and had only recently begun operations, machinery having been installed early last month. Some of the machinery was saved from the Smith Printing office, including the presses and cutting machines. Much of the type and other material was lost, however. Lyerly has been extremely fortunate in the past seven years, in which time not a single fire has occurred, but the occurrence this morning is the worst in the town's history. Lyerly has no fire department and due to this fact it was impossible to save any of the buildings in range of the fire. Had the wind been blowing much more damage would have resulted, for a time the postoffice and other buildings nearby being threatened.

WITNESSES PICTURE WHIPPING OF TABERT

Lake City, Fla., July 2.—Declaring that Martin Tabert worked better the day after he was whipped, than for two weeks before, M. H. Lagroigne, former foreman at the Putnam Lumber company, testified today for the defense in the trial of Thomas W. Higginbotham, former convict whipping boss, charged with the murder of Tabert. The witness said Tabert used a shovel as a member of his section gang and also used a heavy pole in raising a railroad track in order to allow others to fill in washouts underneath. He worked up to 3 o'clock, Lagroigne said, when he had a chill. He knocked off from work and a fire was started to warm him up, the witness said. The chill occurred on Saturday after Tabert had been whipped the Friday night before. "How long did the chill last?" Attorney Roy Chapman, for the defense, asked. "About thirty minutes," Lagroigne replied.

Working Two Weeks

Lagroigne said Tabert had been working in his squad about two weeks. "His work was unsatisfactory and I had to report him to Higginbotham on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday," the witness said, adding that he was reported because he didn't do as much work as the others. "What day did he do the best work?" asked Attorney Chapman. "Saturday after the whipping his work was good up until he had the chill," said Lagroigne. Asked whether there was an epidemic of flu or pneumonia at Lake City at that time, the witness replied: "Yes, sir, there was right smart sickness about the place, adding a name named Jackson died."

On cross-examination, Lagroigne stated he had from five to eight men but could not remember their names, except John and Frank. He explained that convicts were not known by their names. Replying to questions, the witness said he reported Tabert because he would not work as much as some of the others. "He would just talk, walk around and waste a lot of time," he said. "Did you know Tabert had been sick?"

"No, sir; he worked continually in my squad for two weeks," replied Lagroigne.

"Why didn't you work him after the chill?"

"I don't believe in working a sick man," he answered.

Lagroigne said he had not reported Tabert to a physician after his chill.

Dennis Mills, former timekeeper for the Putnam Lumber company, testified that Graham Ward, as locomotive engineer for the company, was not working on January 24 through the 31. He said there was an epidemic raging in Lake City, corroborating other defense witnesses and said Ward told him he had been "laid up with the flu."

Mills was grilled by the state as to how he kept the company's time, in an effort to give the witness a memory test. Mills said he remembered when all the engineers laid off, as a close check had to be kept on them because they were always trying to get overtime. He was on the stand more than an hour.

In reply to a question from Attorney Caldwell as to how long after January 31, 1922, it was when he was consulted by some one as to what he knew of the time record of Ward, Mills said he had conferred with no one nor had he consulted the company books. He declared he was testifying according to his best recollection.

Jesse Waters, a former convict guard, followed the timekeeper on the stand and said he saw Higginbotham whip Tabert. He said Higginbotham struck Tabert eight or ten times.

"Did Higginbotham tell Tabert he was going to make him work or put him in his grave?" he was asked.

"He did not," declared the witness. He said Higginbotham did not strike Tabert on the head.

Strap From Saddle. Waters said Higginbotham got the whipping strap off his saddle and denied that Henry Ward went to Higginbotham's house for it. He said he saw Tabert the following day and later while he was ill at the stockade saw no bruise or lacerations about the head.

The witness said Tabert died on Wednesday night. All of the state's witnesses have testified death occurred on Tuesday night, after the whipping Friday. He described the strap, which he said weighed one and a half pounds.

On cross-examination, Waters said he had been with the company about five months. He said he did not count the lashes given Tabert, but based the amount received on the one taken by Higginbotham to whip.

"Did you not testify before the legislative committee that you based the estimate of the number of lashes struck on what you believe a man could stand?" the witness was asked.

"I don't remember what I said there," he replied.

The state sought to impeach the witness when he said he neither affirmed nor denied the question was asked him by the legislative committee. There was some argument by counsel for both sides, in which L. E. Wade, chief counsel for the defense, declared a witness could not be impeached on testimony addressed before the legislature inasmuch as there was no record here of this being the official record of testimony taken at Tallahassee.

"When Tabert got down on the ground, what happened?" asked Mr. Caldwell.

"He was whipped," said Waters. "How long did it last?"

"About one minute and a half," said the witness.

Waters declared Tabert cried out after each lash, which he plainly heard, as he was standing ten feet away and holding Higginbotham's baby in his arms.

Waters was questioned by Mr. Caldwell as to the variance in his testimony before the legislative committee and that of today, the witness replying to each that he did not remember what he said at Tallahassee. He finally was excused, after the court ruled he could not be impeached.

John Goss, negro, a former convict leased out to the Putnam company, testified he witnessed the Tabert whipping. He said Higginbotham gave Tabert "just about ten" lashes, "just about ten" lashes.

"When asked what Higginbotham said to Tabert, the witness replied: "He told him that he had been reported for not working and that he had to whip him."

"Did Tabert say anything while he was being whipped?" was asked.

"He didn't say nothing," replied Goss.

Goss said he saw Tabert at work on Saturday and on Sunday he saw him in the stockade, but it was Monday before Tabert said anything about being sick. He later declared he saw Tabert's head and face and there were no lacerations. The witness also said he bathed Tabert Monday night, changed his clothing and sheets and blanket on the bunk.

"Did you see any bruises on his body?" Mr. Chapman asked.

"No, sir; his skin was smooth all over," said Goss. The witness said his son Fred, also a convict, had helped him bathe Tabert. He said he bathed Tabert again Tuesday night.

"What time did he die?" was asked.

"It was Wednesday night," the witness said. "I went in to bathe him and he said he was dying, so I went away from him to sleep."

Goss said the strap used to whip Tabert weighed one pound and a half.

NEWSPAPER MEN TO BE ADMITTED TO KLAN MEETING

Indianapolis, Ind., July 2.—Under a special dispensation granted from the general offices in Atlanta, Ga., accredited newspaper men will be permitted to attend the tri-state meeting of the Ku Klux Klan at Kokomo, Ind., July 4, according to an announcement today by Milton Elrod, editor of the Fiery Cross, a Klan publication. Mr. Elrod said klanmen from Ohio, Indiana and Illinois would attend the meeting and that arrangements were being made to care for 200,000 visitors.

Newspaper men, Mr. Elrod said, would be requested not to divulge the names of any of the speakers or participants in the meeting other than the general officers, all of whom are expected to attend.

There are 100,000 to 200,000 square miles of grazing land, capable of supporting 3,000,000 to 4,000,000 reindeer, available for that purpose in Alaska.

COMMITTEE WILL ACT ON JOHN Y. SMITH BILL

The John Y. Smith bill in the general assembly to remove city department heads further from the control of council committees and boards was given official cognizance by general council at its session Monday at the request of Mayor Walter A. Sims. The matter was referred to the committee on charter revision.

In a letter to council, Mayor Sims attributed authorship of the bill to Chief of Police James L. Beavers, former Chief of Detectives Poole and Aldine Chambers, for many years a prominent figure in city politics.

Council referred the matter to the committee of charter revision for formal actions because the bill would require an amendment to the city charter. It was indicated at the council session that the committee would make a formal report to council recommending that the bill not be passed. Council would then recommend to the general assembly that the bill be defeated.

Mayor Sims' letter to council is as follows: I notice in the press where Hon. John Y. Smith, representative from Fulton county, has introduced a bill in the legislature for the purpose of amending the charter of the city of Atlanta.

My information is that this charter amendment was authorized a few days ago by Chief of Police Beavers, former Chief of Detectives Poole, Aldine Chambers and others, after a conference in the office of chief of police. I am satisfied that this amendment, if it is to be adopted, should be passed upon by the city authorities and should not emanate from a few dissatisfied politicians at police station.

I am calling this matter to your attention for the reason that, in my opinion, all charter amendments should be first passed upon by your honorable body.

SCREAMS OF WOMEN FRIGHTEN AWAY BOLD BURGLAR

Bold work of a negro burglar who entered two Atlanta homes during the early hours of Monday morning was reported to detectives yesterday. One of the homes robbed was the residence of Mrs. Henry Haines Green, 62 Bonaventure avenue. The other was the apartment of Mrs. J. T. Sturgeon, 215 North Moreland.

Mrs. Green was aroused by the noise the burglar made in time to see him enter her bedroom, while Miss Annie Sturgeon surprised a thief in the kitchen of their apartment.

Screams frightened the robber off before he had time to ransack the home.

Zonite

tested against carbolic acid

Sample	Dilution	Number of organisms surviving
		5 minutes	15 minutes	30 minutes
ZONITE	1 to 100	000	000	000
	1 to 150	000	000	000
	1 to 200	2,000	100	000
PHENOL (carbolic acid)	1 to 100	000	000	000
	1 to 150	71,000	21,000	10,000
	1 to 200	140,000	90,000	30,000

This table is worth thoughtful study by every man and woman in America. It offers scientific proof that the days of poisonous, burning antiseptics in the home are numbered.

HERE is a table showing the results of a test of germicidal strength between Zonite, the World War antiseptic, which is non-poisonous and harmless to the human body, and carbolic acid, a deadly poison, as destructive to the human body as fire.

The test was made against the bacteria contained in saliva by a bacteriological laboratory with an international reputation. The result would be accepted by any scientist as incontrovertible.

Saliva from the human mouth is filled with bacteria or germ life. The strength of an antiseptic can be determined by the amount of water that may be added to it without destroying its ability to render saliva sterile (kill all germ life).

Mere reduction of the number of germs by an antiseptic is of little value. If a few are left alive they will multiply at an unthinkable rate as soon as the effect of the antiseptic has worn off.

Now examine the table carefully. In the first column the amount of water that was added to the amount of the antiseptic is shown. For instance, 1 to 100 means one drop of Zonite to which one hundred drops of water were added. In the second, third and fourth columns is shown the number of germs that were still alive after being exposed to the solution indicated in the first column for five minutes, fifteen minutes and thirty minutes, respectively.

The result of the test is as follows: One drop of Zonite added to 150 drops of water was applied to millions of bacteria coated with saliva. In five minutes not one was left alive. Phenol (pure carbolic acid) at the same dilution failed to kill all germs in fifteen minutes.

And now remember this—Zonite can be applied to a cut or wound absolutely pure. When taken into the mouth and gargled in the throat at proper dilution its destruction of germs is almost instantaneous.

If you have a deadly poison in your home, get rid of it! What sane man or woman can continue to expose themselves and their families to danger and harm through the use of such antiseptics, after studying the above table?

Zonite is a colorless liquid that does not stain, destroys odors and leaves no odor of its own.

Complete instructions in the use of this new form of antiseptic, showing the protection it brings to any home, will be found in every package.

TO WOMEN: If you have a deadly poison in your home—get rid of it! Such caustic, burning fluids are dangerous to have about.

They are also extremely harmful if used regularly for douche medication. Any physician will verify this statement.

DELEGATES GATHER FOR LEGION MEETING

Athens, Ga., July 2.—(Special.)—A meeting of the state executive committee, at which time preliminaries for the big meeting were begun, prepared the way for opening here tomorrow of the American Legion convention of the Georgia department.

Delegates from all sections of the state began arriving Sunday and continued through tonight.

The convention will be officially opened tomorrow with addresses of welcome by Mayor George C. Thomas, Chancellor D. C. Barrow and others. General Frank T. Hines of the United States Veterans' bureau will speak tomorrow morning and Senator Walter F. George tomorrow afternoon.

Friends of Edgar Dunlap, of Gainesville; George Woodruff, of Columbus; and Fonville McWhorter, of Atlanta, are laying the ground work for their respective candidacies for the commandship of the state department, over which Rodney Cohen, of Augusta, now presides.

Want 1934 Convention. Rome, Savannah and Albany are out after the 1934 convention, according to gossip in convention headquarters at the Georgian hotel tonight.

Evan P. Howell, Bob Troutman, General H. D. Russell, of the Georgia national guard, of Macon, and other legion notables are on the ground taking part in the preliminaries.

War-time "buddies," now leaders in their various professions, women members of the Legion Auxiliary as well as visitors bent on seeing the fireworks and enjoying the entertainment program on July 4, will be guests of Athens and either take part or view from the sidelines the "something doing every minute" program worked out by the local committee of which Frank O. Miller is chairman.

Registration of the delegates will continue at the Georgian hotel until 11 o'clock Tuesday morning at which time the opening of the convention and reception of delegates will take place. Mayor George C. Thomas, Chancellor David C. Barrow, Henry H. West, commander of the Allen R. Fleming, Jr., post of the legion, and Mrs. E. H. Johnson, commander of the woman's auxiliary, will deliver the welcome addresses to which Mrs. W. F. Baker, of the auxiliary, and Rodney Cohen, commander of the Georgia legion department, will respond.

The principal address at the morning session will be made by General Frank T. Hines, of the veterans' bureau. General Hines will be introduced by Joe Sparks, chairman of the national rehabilitation committee.

George Will Speak. At 4 o'clock in the afternoon of that day, Senator Walter F. George, of Vienna, will deliver an address. Senator George will be introduced by E. Earle Cocke, of Dawson, vice commander in the national organization of the legion.

At 8 o'clock Tuesday evening Miss Nita Bulloch's committee will show the living pictures on a screen specially constructed on the roof garden of the Georgian hotel.

Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock, Georgia's new governor, Clifford M. Walker, will deliver an address, the first since his inauguration as chief magistrate of the state last Saturday.

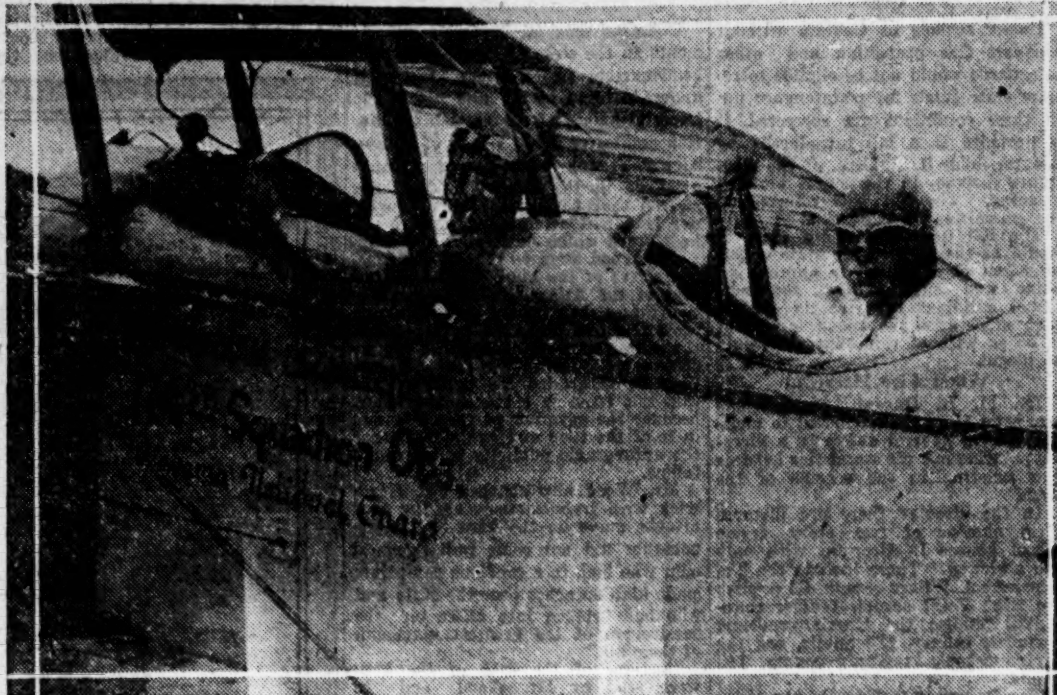

Wednesday afternoon the special program for the "glorious fourth" will be held at which time daylight fireworks will be set off, a baseball game between the University of Georgia team and Elberton will be played followed that night by a torch light parade through the principal business thoroughfares.

July 5, the closing day of the convention, Mrs. Dr. Kate Walker Barrett, national president of the auxiliary, will speak, followed by a business session when new state officers will be elected and the next convention site selected.

NOTED NOVELIST PASSES IN ENGLAND

London, July 2.—Arthur Williams Marshmont, the novelist, died at his home, in Bath, last night. He was born in 1832, and after leaving Oxford engaged in journalism, which he abandoned in 1894 to write fiction. His "By Right of Sword" was dramatized and produced in the United States in 1902.

Atlanta Needs Landing Accommodation For Big Airplanes, Says Army Officer

Captain Donovan Yeuell, of Atlanta (front cockpit), and Captain Asa M. Duncan, pilot (rear cockpit), taking off at Roberts field, Birmingham, Ala., during Captain Yeuell's recent tour of the fourth corps area by air.

Alabama Towns Have Up-to-Date Field Equip- ment for Cross-Country Machines, States Yeuell

"Atlanta has not a landing field to accommodate large cross-country airplanes," declared Captain Donovan Yeuell, corps area civilian military training camp officer stationed in this city, who has just returned from a week's tour of the fourth corps area by airplane.

Most of the cities and towns in Alabama have adequate landing fields and accommodations to accompany them, Captain Yeuell states, but Atlanta's lone landing stage, Cantor field at Fort McPherson, is too small to permit safe landing of a big plane. Commercial fliers land there, it is true, but they take chances which cannot be taken by officials in the government service, Captain Yeuell added. Captain Yeuell suggests that civic officials take up the matter of providing a large field and arrange for proper accommodation. The field would have to be graded and weeds cut, with gasoline and oil service installed, he said. In Alabama, the officer points out, each field is supplied with a lubrication and fuel station, and a taxi to bring fliers into town is dispatched following a signal from the approaching plane.

Drought Future.

There is a bright future for commercial flying, Captain Yeuell predicts, and there is little question but that this speedy medium of transportation will become a permanent service. In case of disorders, such as occurred at Savannah recently, a large D-H would be unable to land or take off safely in the vicinity of Atlanta under present conditions, he declared.

In Captain Yeuell's recent tour he covered almost 1,800 miles and touched at Birmingham, Tuscaloosa, Selma, Montgomery, Mobile, Pensacola, Fort Benning, Fort McClellan and Gadsden.

His mission was to interest leading citizens of the towns in which he visited in the citizens' military training corps and he addressed many civic clubs and other leading organizations. Captain Yeuell stated that 130 men from Georgia and 400 from Alabama are needed to complete the southern states' quota.

Captain Yeuell's pilots on the trip were Captain Asa M. Duncan, of the national guard, and Major Roy Brown and Lieutenant A. C. Kincaid, who handled the federal machines.

AUTO COMMITTEE FACES PROBLEM

functions that are to be given in their honor. We will also want to send them to their trains when they depart."

Secure Noons Enough. As a result of the publicity given appeals for rooms in which to house the visitors, splendid responses have been made by the Atlanta people, and the announcement was made Monday morning by Chairman John S. McClelland, of the 1933 convention board, that sufficient quarters have been secured for all applications that have so far been made for reservations.

Chairman McClelland extended to the newspapers and to the people of the city the hearty appreciation of the Atlanta Elks lodge, saying that the space given the appeals for rooms by the newspapers was characteristic of the public spirit and generosity of the local daily publications. "We wish to extend our gratitude to the newspapers," said Mr. McClelland, "and to the people of the city for the true spirit of loyalty and generosity they have exhibited toward the Elks' lodge in this emergency. All our prospective guests have been provided for with reference to lodgings, and there is every indication that the visitors will be entertained in a manner that will in every way uphold the reputation of Atlanta for genuine southern hospitality."

Separate Office. Arthur I. May stated that the automobile committee has increased so much in importance that it had become necessary to open a separate office from the quarters occupied by the convention board. This office is located near the central portion of the city, at 160 W. Peachtree street, where Mr. May, and a group of workers will take listings for cars during the week, and he urges all men and women in the city who can spare their cars for the entire week, or who can turn them over to the committee for part service, to get in touch with him or the committee at once.

Pledge cards have been provided for the convenience of car-owners, and these have been left at the various filling stations in the city, where they may be conveniently secured to be filled out and posted to the automobile committee.

"Let every man in the city who wants to uphold Atlanta's splendid reputation, get busy and donate the use of his car during the coming week to the automobile committee," said Mr. May, and he urges immediate action in order that the committee may know just how many cars to expect. Posters that will adhere to the windshield of the car have been prepared for use of people who are willing to place their cars at the disposal of Elks during the week for short rides, etc., and these stickers, bearing an Elks' emblem and the words, "Hello Bill," and "Hop in," may be secured at the headquarters of the automobile committee.

Mammoth Parade. It is predicted that one of the most elaborate spectacles ever presented in Atlanta will be seen when the patrols, bands and thousands of delegates to the grand lodge convention parade through the streets of the city Thursday, July 12. This will undoubtedly be the biggest thing of its kind ever staged in Atlanta.

Approximately 40 large bands will take part in the procession, in addition to numerous patrols and other R. P. O. E. divisions. It is estimated that virtually 12,000 will be in the line of march which assembles on Peachtree street and Ponce de Leon avenue. As the parade moves south the individual organizations will join in from the side streets until the entire contingent of Elks is formed into one great line.

The reviewing stand of the grand exalted ruler of the B. P. O. E. will be located on the Marietta street side of the city hall, at the corner of Foryth street. In front of this stand the procession will pass in recognition to the exalted ruler and his staff.

The procession will march from Peachtree street into Whitehall street, from Whitehall street into Mitchell street, to Broad street, to Marietta street, to Spring street. Upon arriving at Spring street the procession will disband.

Officials Arriving. Fred Robinson, grand secretary of B. P. O. E., was expected to arrive Tuesday from Chicago. He will be located at the Ansley hotel, where C. H. Grakelov, exalted ruler of the Philadelphia lodge, and C. Christian, of the Philadelphia-Northern, are already situated.

J. Edgar Masters, grand exalted ruler, arrives in Atlanta from Philadelphia over the Southern railway Friday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock. It is expected there will be a large delegation of local Elks and delegates, accompanied by a uniformed guard, to meet Mr. Masters.

Mr. Grakelov and Mr. Christian both expressed themselves as being gratified over the splendid work accomplished by the local committees. They declared preparations could not have been better arranged, and that although they expected to find some details in need of adjusting they found absolutely nothing to do in way of arranging for the opening of the convention. Atlanta Elks have done wonderfully well, they declared, and the entire order appreciates and thanks them for it.

126 Years Pass by Since First "Old Glory" Flew

Atlanta's Citizens Will Honor Birth of Nation By Great Patriotic Parade.

When the sun creeps over the eastern horizon on Wednesday morning it will be 126 years ago since America shook off the shackles that bound her and started on the road to become the world power she is today.

The Stars and Stripes, set in surroundings of gay bunting and colorful decorations, will be floating in the breeze above all the noise and turmoil on the streets on this day of days when young America is given absolute leeway in expressing its unbounded enthusiasm and patriotism.

Instead of a lessening in popular fervor on that day, there is an increase each year in the functions on the Fourth of July, at which public bodies and organizations of all descriptions combine their efforts to do better than the year before.

The program for this year is an ambitious one.

Numerous meetings have been announced in addition to the usual parade. One feature of the parade this year is going to be an inclusion in the marching ranks of adopted sons of Uncle Sam from China, Brazil, Japan, Poland, Russia, Korea, Switzerland, Mexico, Cuba and Italy.

The parade procession will move at 5 o'clock across the parade grounds at Piedmont park to the steps below the Peace monument where the exercises will be held.

Following is a general list of the organizations to take part in the parade.

First division—City band; speakers of the occasion; president of Woman's club and distinguished guests.

Second division—Gen. David C. Shanks and staff, Confederate veterans, Grand Army of the Republic, Spanish War veterans, disabled World War veterans, veterans of foreign wars, American war veterans, navy, marine corps.

Third division—(headed by Bikes band)—Colonial Dames, Daughters of American Colonists, Daughters and Founders and Patriots of America, Atlanta chapter Daughters of American Revolution, Joseph Habersham chapter Daughters of American Revolution, Piedmont chapter, Daughters American Revolution, United States Daughters of 1812, Confederate Southern Memorial association, Ladies' Memorial Association of Atlanta, United Daughters of Confederacy, Atlanta chapter; United Daughters of Confederacy, Fulton chapter; Woman's auxiliary G. A. R., Children of Confederacy, Sons of Confederate Veterans, War Mothers, Woman's auxiliary American Legion, Overseas Girls, Red Cross nurses.

Fourth division—City Federation of Woman's clubs, Junior League, W. C. T. U., League of Women Voters, New Citizens, Parent-Teacher association, Y. W. C. A., Business Women's league, Kirtland's circle, League, Witches' club, Girl Scouts, Campfire Girls.

Fifth division—Presidents' club, Chamber of Commerce, Rotary club, Kiwanis club, Lions' club, Junior Chamber of Commerce, Representatives of Atlanta Woman's club.

Boy Scouts will act as aides and couriers to the marshal of the day. Confederate veterans in cars from the Confederate Home will be stationed to the right of the speakers' platform. Disabled World War veterans in cars will be stationed to the left of the platform. At the close of the exercises flowers will be placed on the Peace monument.

Veterans of '61 See Sham Battle Of Gettysburg

Gettysburg, Pa., July 2.—From the crest of Little Round Top, veterans of the south and north today witnessed the re-enactment by modern artillery of the attack they had made and repulsed on the Gettysburg battlefield sixty years ago.

The sham battle was a feature of the sixtieth anniversary celebration. Although on a much smaller scale, the maneuvers of General B. sixteenth United States field artillery, recalled vividly to the old soldiers the famous battle in which they had a part. At the conclusion of the maneuvers a salute of 21 guns was fired.

Earlier in the day the wearers of the blue and the gray, gathered at Spangler's Spring, which had freshened them during a lull in the fighting three score years ago. The veterans marched about three miles from camp in arm and in high glee, to the tune of "When Johnny Comes Marching Home."

Formal exercises in connection with the celebration were held on Little Round Top. They included a patriotic address by the Rev. Harry Daniels, of this city, a brief speech by Theodore McAllister, who told how he had been detailed as a scout to locate the Confederate army, which was reported to be in the Cumberland Valley headed towards Harrisburg. Because of the report he made, General Meade, it was said, selected Gettysburg as the place for the battle instead of Pipe Creek, Maryland, as had been planned. The celebration will continue tomorrow.

TRAIN HITS TRUCK; TWO ARE KILLED

Charleston, S. C., July 2.—Joe Glover, driver of a motor truck, and Ida Stark, a passenger, were killed today, at an Atlantic Coast Line crossing about four miles from the city, when a freight train and the truck collided.

Glover was instantly killed. The woman died shortly thereafter at a hospital here. The truck was torn to pieces and three freight cars were derailed.

"After the Hon. Bragg Brizlee had been running for office a few years," stated Jim Fiddlin, of Straddle Ridge, "he had to get a neighbor to call his horses for him. They got so they couldn't believe him on oath."—Kansas City Star.

Bill Introduced Enforcing School Fire Protection

Public schools of Georgia without adequate fire protection and other safeguards would not be eligible to receive state funds for maintenance until these conditions are corrected, it is provided in a bill introduced by Senator John B. Phillips, of the eighth district, in the senate Monday morning. The bill was referred to the committee on education.

The bill further provides that it would be the duty of the state superintendent of education to approve all plans and specifications for new school buildings in Georgia before such structures are begun, and that no school without this approval would be illegal.

Worst Fire Hazards.

Dr. M. L. Duggan, rural school agent, on Monday distributed to members of the general assembly a circular pointing out the worst fire hazards now existing in the schools of the state.

In the circular there are pictures of a number of two-story frame school houses in Georgia, with only one stairway. These include the Tyrone school, Wilkes county, 95 pupils; the High Point school, Walker county, 72 pupils; the Harris academy, Gwinnett county, 120 pupils, and the Elipino school, in Grady county, 140 pupils.

The Barney school, in Brooks county, is a one-story brick building referred to as a type absolutely safe from fire.

The recent fires, one in a school house in Kershaw county, South Carolina, when 70 persons were burned to death, and another at High Point school house in Newton county, Georgia, when two children were burned to death and 28 others injured, are cited as examples of the dangers faced through improperly constructed school buildings.

Other Bills Introduced.

In addition to the school bill Senator Phillips presented a number of other bills in the senate, many of which he declared were offered at the request of the Augusta Bar association, in his district.

Senator Stephen Pace, of the sixteenth district, introduced a bill that would empower the Georgia public service commission with authority to abate any safety bridge crossings in the state. This measure was referred to the railroad committee.

Salaries of the clerk and marshal of the municipal court of Atlanta would be increased $50 each per month, or to $4,200 per year, in a measure submitted by Senator Ernest M. Smith, of the thirty-fifth district.

Commodity Rates Made Effective Despite Protests

Washington, July 2.—New commodity rates prepared by railroads to affect freight traffic to and from points in the southeast of the United States on and after July 1 have been allowed to become effective by the interstate commerce commission in spite of protests filed by the Southern Traffic league and other organizations.

The protests asked the commission to prevent the rates from becoming effective until an investigation could be made, charged that the new schedules would involve increases in freights generally, but the commission denied this.

The general commodity rate revision was undertaken by railroads concerned under orders of the interstate commerce commission, which required the elimination of a large number of existing rate conditions by which short haul traffic was charged amounts in excess of long haul traffic.

Railroader Suicides.

Macon, Ga., July 2.—Said to have been despondent since he was transferred from the west yards of the Southern railway where he had served for many years, Paton S. Shepherd, 65, blew out his brains this morning with a 32 calibre revolver.

ANSWERS ATTACK MADE ON K. K. K.

Charging that an "invisible government" in the state of Georgia, had its headquarters in "a room in a well known Atlanta hotel," and not in the imperial palace of the Ku Klux Klan, Representative J. O. Wood, of Fulton county, arising to a point of personal privilege in the house Monday answered that portion of former governor Hardwick's recent message to the legislature which dealt with the Klan.

Mr. Wood asserted that at one time, operatives of the Klan, aided by members of the Atlanta police and detective forces, had kept a watch on this room and had found the governor and an editor of a newspaper in conference there. He added that at one time he persuaded the police not to raid this room in a search for liquor, because the governor of the state was in it at the time and he did not want the unfavorable publicity which would follow.

Mr. Wood also charged Mr. Hardwick with inconsistency, stating that attacks made on the Klan by the governor did not come well from a man who had, in a previous campaign, made Klan speeches over the state and who had "hidden into office on the bandwagon of the greatest klansman of them all."

Portions of the oath of the Klan were read by Mr. Wood and he asked the members of the legislature if they could find anything therein not favorable to God, Home and Country.

Wife of Slain Officer Denied View of Funeral

Chattanooga, Tenn., July 2.—Mrs. Ricker, held her husband, Lieutenant James C. Ricker, who was shot in their quarters at Camp McClellan Friday night, was denied a request to be allowed to attend her husband's funeral by the sheriff.

J. A. MORRIS TO SPEAK AT DUNWOODY JULY 4

Joseph A. Morris, member of the law firm of Hutcheson and Morrison, will deliver an address at Dunwoody, Ga., July 4. Mr. Morris represented Wayne county in the state legislature for two terms and is an accomplished speaker. A barbecue and basket dinner will be given in which 1,200 baskets are expected to be provided by the ladies. Fraternal orders will take part in the celebration.

COMMITTEE LIST IS READY FOR ASSEMBLY

Plans for holding memorial services in honor of the late Senator Watson, as provided in a resolution passed in the house Monday, were delayed when a special committee of six named by Speaker W. Cecil Neill, decided Monday night to request that the date be postponed until later.

Owing to the limited period between now and Wednesday for arranging a fitting speakers' program and the inability of certain members of the late senator's family to be present at the exercises, it was decided best by the committee to postpone the memorial until mature plans can be worked out.

At the committee's session, it was pointed out that both Senators Harris and George already had speaking engagements on Wednesday and that neither of Senator Watson's granddaughters—Miss Georgia Lee and Miss Georgia Watson—could be present Wednesday, the former having been dismissed from the hospital Monday where she recently underwent an operation for the removal of her appendix.

Exercise Impracticable.

Therefore in order that a program, which would include representative speakers of the state could be devised, members of the committee announced it would be inadvisable to hold the memorial on Independence day.

As a result both the senate and house will probably adjourn at 1 o'clock Tuesday until Thursday morning.

The resolution providing for the memorial exercises was submitted in the house by Representatives Stanford, of Lowndes; Evans, of Warren, and Fleming, of Columbia. Speaker Neill appointed on the program committee, the three authors of the resolution: Representative Daniel, of Troup; Beck, of Carroll, and Bowden, of McBuffie.

Permanent Memorial.

Another resolution, introduced by Linder, of Jeff Davis, provided for a committee of three from the house and two from the senate, to draft suitable memorial resolutions and suggest plans for a permanent memorial to Mr. Watson. Representatives Linder, Wood, of Fulton, and Daniel, of Troup, were named as the house members of this committee.

On his second attempt, Representative Barrett, of Stephens, succeeded in securing unanimous consent to a resolution to refer all proposals for investigation of the state highway department, together with the one already passed by the senate, to a committee of the whole house. This follows the commitment of such a house resolution to the committee of the whole at Saturday's session.

One of the most important of 49 new bills introduced in the house Monday was one by Elders, of Tattall, and Winberly, of Toombs, which provides for a constitutional amendment calling for the collection of a state income tax. This bill would also repeal the tax equalization law and is patterned closely after the North Carolina tax law. The body of the measure reads as follows:

New Tax Amendment.

"All taxes shall be levied and collected under general laws and for public purposes only, and this shall apply to the levying and collecting of all taxes for the support of the state government and the taxes levied by counties and municipalities. All property in this state shall be exempted from ad valorem tax levying for state purposes.

"The general assembly shall also have authority to levy taxes upon income, which tax may be graduated, and the general assembly shall have authority to allow exemptions when levying income taxes.

New Judge For Fulton.

Another bill of particular interest in Fulton county, was that of Representative Mann, of Glynn, and Elders, of Tattall, introduced a bill providing the distillation test for gasoline inspection in Georgia. A bill for the abolition of capital punishment in the state was introduced by Pitts, of Gordon.

A resolution, offered by Speaker Neill, providing for an increase in the membership of several of the important standing committees, was carried unanimously.

Speaker Neill stated Monday that he expected to have completed his list of committee appointments by Tuesday. It had been expected that it would be complete Monday, but it is reported that this increase in size caused the delay of another day.

President George Carswell, of the senate, has stated that he will not announce his committees until after the house committees are given out.

PROGRAM OFFERED BY FOOTWARMERS

The Footwarmers' orchestra held forth again from Station WGM, The Atlanta Constitution, between 6 and 7 o'clock Monday evening. Their concert included ten of the latest dance selections and was given in a manner that would do credit to any dance organization.

Old favorites—not old through the passage of time, but by their wide popularity—were featured by the Footwarmers. Some of these were "Railroad Man," and "Yes, We Have No Bananas."

From the beginning the Footwarmers had a world of energy and put their numbers through at almost double time. However, this is a real accomplishment, since it isn't every orchestra that can speed up music the way the Footwarmers do. In this way the organization puts more punch in its music, even though it would be difficult to dance by it by radio.

Even though a great many openings were left for request numbers there were not nearly enough, for the requests started the telephone ringing before the Footwarmers had finished their first orchestration, and solos, hinted by the Footwarmers a few days ago, had to be sidetracked for the orchestration requested.

Talk to Women By Mrs. Anderson Set for Tonight

One of the features of this evening's broadcast from Station WGM, The Atlanta Constitution, between 6 and 7 o'clock, will be the weekly talk by Mrs. Martha Goode Anderson, of the woman's department of The Constitution.

Each week Mrs. Anderson gives a short talk, usually of about five or ten minutes' duration, on subjects of interest to women. Mrs. Anderson has not announced the subject of tonight's talk, but it will probably follow up her last week's message on matters pertaining to community life in the country.

RADIO DEPARTMENT

TONIGHT'S EARLY CONCERT BY ACES

Warner's Seven Aces, The Atlanta Constitution orchestra, and the premier dance organization of the south, comes back to Station WGM tonight at 6 o'clock for one of its two weekly concerts.

Listeners were short-changed last week when the Aces were forced to give up at the last minute their Thursday evening broadcast, due to the illness of Byron Warner, director and pianist of the Aces. This week the Aces are planning their regular appearances in the studio again.

Tonight the regular radio orchestra of the old reliable station of the south will swing into the ether promptly at 6 o'clock with a bunch of new dance tunes that promise to wiggle the headphone diaphragms a little more than radio concerts generally do, for with the lapse of a week the Aces have prepared several new selections with characteristic Warner orchestrations.

Ever since Warner's Seven Aces became the second radio orchestra in America—and that was about a year ago—the Warner swing has puzzled and delighted all listeners to The Constitution. It was this same swing that induced recording concerns to obtain records of the Aces' music. So it is a real treat when the Aces sign on for their regular broadcasts from Station WGM twice a week.

Songs and Piano Solos Planned At Six O'Clock

Three well-known WGM entertainers will supplement the program of Warner's Seven Aces, The Atlanta Constitution orchestra, on the 6 o'clock broadcast tonight.

These entertainers are Miss Miss Evelyn Youngblood, contralto; Miss Ruby Ryman, contralto; and Miss Edna Bauknight, accompanist, and piano soloist.

Miss Youngblood and Miss Bauknight were heard only recently from Station WGM, but it has been several weeks since an appearance by Miss Ryman before The Constitution microphone.

The grouping of two contraltos on a program is unusual, but the songs they will sing will be so different in nature that the broadcast promises to be especially delightful.

WGM Will Again Transmit Detail Of Ball Fracas

Baseball details will occupy Station WGM's 3 to 4 o'clock broadcast again this afternoon. Today the Atlanta Crackers are meeting the New Orleans Pelicans at the home plot and fans here are more than interested in watching for a Cracker comeback after the 8 to 1 trouncing administered yesterday by New Orleans.

From 3 to 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon every detail of the play in the Atlanta-New Orleans game was given by The Constitution. Attention is again called to the fact that on Wednesday, Station WGM will broadcast both games in the fourth of July schedule. The Atlanta crowd will meet the New Orleans outfit at 10 o'clock in the morning and again at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Details of the first game will be given between 10 o'clock in the morning and noon and on the afternoon game between 3 and 4 o'clock.

WILLIS SAILS TODAY FOR TOUR IN EUROPE

G. F. Willis, president of the Zonite company and prominent local capitalist, who left recently for New York, will sail today on the Aquitania for a six weeks' tour in Europe. On his return, Mr. Willis will spend several weeks at Grove Park Inn, Asheville, N. C.

Elks' Welcome Program Planned for Tonight

Broadcast Will Include Nora Allen, Thomas Dendy, Mayor Sims and John McClelland.

A program that will include two of station WGM's most notable exclusive artists as well as two eminent speakers and a double quartet from the Elks' Troubadours will be presented from station WGM between 9:30 and 10:45 o'clock tonight. The concert directed by Signor E. Volpi, in charge of the music for the Elks' convention in Atlanta July 9 to 14th, will be in the nature of a radio-phonograph to Elks throughout the United States.

As a special feature of this welcome there will be addresses to listening Elks from Mayor Walter A. Sims and John S. McClelland, chairman of the Elks' convention in the south. Both of these outstanding musical stars on tonight's program will be Nora Allen, noted lyric soprano, and Thomas Dendy, one of the most sensational young baritones in the south. Both of these stars were heard Sunday night from station WGM and listeners may consider themselves doubly fortunate in hearing them again so soon. Miss Allen and Mr. Dendy are members of the Troubadours.

The double quartet from the Elks' Troubadours will open the broadcast with the Elks' opening oath. Later this double quartet will sing an anthem and close the program with the Elks' closing oath.

Playing the piano accompaniments for all of these selections will be Signor Volpi, who has charge of the program.

MISS HUNT GIVES PROGRAM AT 9:30

Seven excellent artists combined their talent last evening in the 9:30 to 10:45 o'clock broadcast from Station WGM, The Atlanta Constitution. The program was directed by Miss Marjorie Hunt, pianist, and a former teacher in the New Orleans Conservatory of Music.

Those who came to the Old Reliable station of the south for the late hour broadcast, besides Miss Hunt, were: Mrs. C. L. Douglas, soprano; Miss Elizabeth Tillman, violinist; Miss Louise Mahoney, soprano; Mrs. M. M. Burns, pianist; Miss Ella Mae Blackwell, soprano; and Mrs. B. O. Clifton, soprano.

The hour was filled with music principally of the ballad type, but a touch of the classical was given the concert by the violin and piano selections by Miss Tillman and Miss Hunt, the sponsor.

Miss Hunt is a pianist of real accomplishment and her work last night from Station WGM was of the highest type. Miss Tillman and Mrs. Burns are also artists of real talent. Mrs. Douglas, Miss Blackwell, Mrs. Clifton and Miss Mahoney were charming in their numbers. They were accompanied by Mrs. Burns at the piano. Several of the vocal numbers had violin obbligatos played by Miss Tillman.

STATE COMMITTEE LIST TO BE GIVEN

Station W G M, The Atlanta Constitution, will be in air this morning promptly at 10 o'clock with its second regular legislative broadcast from the Georgia state capitol. One of the big features of this morning's broadcast will be the reading in both the senate and house of representatives of committee appointments for the next two years.

This will be the second legislative broadcast given by Station WGM and is expected to be a great improvement even over the broadcast Saturday of the joint session of the senate and house at which Governor Clifford Walker was inaugurated. Operators of Station WGM have been working on the relay apparatus for two days and have pronounced it in much better shape to operate under the existing conditions in the senate and house.

Senator George Talks From WGM On U. S. Politics

A feature of widespread interest on the 6 to 7 o'clock broadcast Monday evening from Station WGM, The Atlanta Constitution, was the address by Georgia's junior United States senator, Hon. Walter F. George.

Senator George discussed national politics in his talk, outlining briefly the policies of the democratic and republican parties as the basis. With this foundation he went into an explanation of the world court plan and gave the predominant issues which are foreseen for the presidential race in 1924.

Senator George is a forceful speaker and by his address last night added his name to the already long list of well known men to speak from The Constitution's station.

Mrs. Richardson Tells of Plans For July Fourth

The plans of the Atlanta Woman's club for making the Atlanta celebration of the Fourth of July a demonstration for American citizenship were outlined from Station WGM, the old reliable station of the south, between 6 and 7 o'clock by Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, president of the Woman's club.

Mrs. Richardson spoke for about five minutes, telling The Constitution audience of the effort of the Woman's club American citizenship committee to impress the importance of the duties of citizenship on both native and naturalized citizens.

The Woman's club this year is planning a monster pageant in which will be represented various countries of the world which are represented by naturalized citizens of the United States.

Alleged Slayer Breaks Long Fast In Cleveland Jail

Cleveland, Ohio, July 2.—After going without food for 142 1/2 hours—within 1 1/2 hours of six days—John L. Whitfield, alleged slayer of Patrolman Dennis Griffin, broke his fast late today. He ate a special meal prepared by Sheriff Charles B. Stannard, consisting of a bowl of milk and a box of graham crackers, it being his first food since he was arrested in Detroit last Tuesday.

Whitfield told Stannard in the presence of his counsel that he was afraid of being poisoned, and admitted he had been feigning when he gave sickness as his reason for not eating.

"The police told me that I ought to be poisoned and that I probably would be while in jail," Whitfield declared. "So I was afraid to eat. I thought the sheriff's office was part of the police department and that they would put poison in my food."

Stannard assured him that his fears are groundless. Furthermore, he issued orders forbidding anyone to see him except his attorneys and the county prosecutor.

GOVERNOR PREPARING MESSAGE ON TAXATION

Governor Clifford M. Walker, spending his first day of active business in the chair of the chief executive of the state, devoted most of his time to preparing his special message on tax problems of Georgia, which he is expecting to send to the legislature before the end of this week.

On Monday, Governor Walker swore in the new state house officials. Major C. E. McGregor succeeds Colonel John W. Clark as pension commissioner. Dr. N. M. Ballard succeeds Dr. M. M. Parks as school commissioner. All holders of constitutional offices, which include the secretary of state, comptroller general, and state treasurer, begin their term with the new governor.

Hosts of visitors flocked to the gubernatorial offices all day Monday, hoping to find an opportunity to shake the hand of the new governor and to wish him well. Whenever possible they were admitted.

Towards the close of his morning's work, a touch of trouble clouded the brow of Governor Walker. He was talking to a few newspaper men at the time.

"The worst part of this work is showing already," he said. "There is a man in Heard county sentenced to hang on Friday, July 13. He has been refused a recommendation for mercy by the prison commission and I am his only remaining hope."

Mrs. J. W. Tate Gains 25 Lbs. Taking Tanlac

"Tanlac is like a guardian for my health and I never expect to be without a bottle in the house," recently said Mrs. James W. Tate, residing at 1502 Maple St., Rome, Ga. "I had hardly known a day free of suffering in ten years. I was either in misery with my stomach, or kidneys, or a hacking cough nearly every minute. Finally I got to where I could eat scarcely anything except a little sweet milk. I lost twenty-five pounds and not so weak the short walk to the store would completely exhaust me."

"Tanlac has relieved me of every trouble and built me up to my normal weight besides. If it had not been my own experience I could not believe it. I just can't say too much in praise of Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.

GOVERNMENT FINANCES.
On several occasions, during President Harding's western trip, he has referred to the prediction of treasury officials that there will be a surplus of $200,000,000 at the end of the fiscal year, June 30, whereas a year ago it was predicted there would be a deficit of $823,000,000.

because he had this matchless courage to lead development, rather than follow it.

Therefore, his value to the city, to the thousands of people who followed his wake and cashed in on his enterprise, cannot be computed in dollars and cents.

The development of Forsyth street when it was nothing more than a back street of indifferent reputation was a far vision and at the time considered reckless in its boldness; and particularly when he built on it one of the city's greatest hotels and theaters to give to it that tone and character necessary to make it a major thoroughfare of a growing city. His foresight has been worth millions to others, but Mr. Ansley died poor.

The same is true of Ansley Park, when rugged suburban hills and cuts and ravines were converted under his developing genius into one of the most beautiful and inviting residence sections of any city in this country.

It is too often the story of the pathfinder in a city's progress. Indeed it is almost the rule.

Atlanta owes a debt to Edwin P. Ansley that it can never pay, but the monuments he left to his name will endure.

THE FOURTH OF JULY.
The fine spirit of cooperation, which has made the Atlanta Woman's club one of the outstanding organizations of its kind, has been much in evidence during the past few weeks as the citizenship department of this club has gone about its work preparing for a fitting observance of the Fourth of July.

Initiated by this department, the movement for such a celebration has not only been warmly approved by practically every civic and patriotic organization in the city, but it has received their most cordial support and active assistance.

As a result of this whole-souled spirit of united effort, Atlanta will witness on the Fourth of July an impressive and spectacular observance of this great patriotic occasion.

More than a score of organizations will participate; distinguished speakers will be heard, and the lessons of duty and to support of government will be deepened.

Moreover, it will serve to impress a lesson of obligation to those who so wisely founded this government and to those heroic spirits of all ages who have so gallantly fought for the preservation of the ideals upon which it was founded.

Such an observance of this memorable occasion is both fitting and needful. There are numerous forces at work in this country today which seek to tear down that which has been built with so much devotion and with so much sacrifice, and too often evidences are seen of indifference to and forgetfulness of the services rendered by the devoted men and women who struggled and sacrificed in times past for the maintenance of the institutions upon which our collective well-being depends.

All fitting observances of the Fourth help to correct this unhappy tendency, and help to kindle the spirit of appreciation that is essential to true patriotic devotion.

PRESIDENT WEAVER.
The Farmers' Union of Georgia and the agricultural interests of the state as a whole are to be congratulated upon the election of ex-Senator James D. Weaver, of Dawson, to the presidency of that organization.

There are few larger farmers in Georgia and there is not one whose heart beats in deeper sympathy with the present state-wide movement for greater co-operation, more intelligent farming and a more rigid system of agricultural readjustments to meet new economic conditions.

Senator Weaver served most acceptably in the 1921-22 assembly and his voice and vote were always used for conservative, constructive legislation. He has no sympathy with radicalism or with political demagoguery.

He will make his organization a worthy, progressive, strengthening leader.

Commenting on recent killings, the Indianapolis News says that "now and then a wife is found who, after her husband is wounded, that she was shooting at somebody else."

DEATH OF EDWIN P. ANSLEY
Though not unexpected, for he had been in failing health for several months and critically ill for a week, the death in Brunswick of Edwin P. Ansley, of Atlanta, came as a distinct shock to his thousands of friends here and throughout the country.

Few Atlantans have passed who have left more enduring monuments of enterprise, vision and constructive progressiveness. For 30 years he had been a builder, and his name will be linked for all time with some of Atlanta's most outstanding real estate developments.

He was not only a builder who followed the path of development, but he heaved the path in advance of others; and thus, while Atlanta fitted much by Edwin P. Ansley's light and faith in the city's future, Ansley himself did not see the fulfillment of his plans.

If all promises hold good it really will be a fairly safe Fourth.

Of course, Mr. Dempsey seems confident of the favorable result and yet, as the expert fight fans say: "You never can tell."

The Fayette Advertiser talks out in meeting, as follows—
"The city marshal had been disposed to do his duty he would have arrested that man who paraded the streets recently with a dozen or so fishing poles on the back of his motor car and several cans of bait on the front seat. While that fellow's intentions may have been good, he did not have the right to disturb business and cause so much dissatisfaction with the lot of a large number of us who had to work and could not possibly slip over to the river bank and enjoy ourselves."

A wordy discussion does not become chewing the rag until the speaker has been taken out of the controversy and it has been time to stop for several paragraphs. In most cases those who indulge in this form of spitting at another do so because of a small vocabulary and a facility of expression. Sometimes the rag is chewed for the purpose of ratcheting the real issue and sometimes a match of this kind results in serious difficulty, because each member of the talking match tries to get the last word. Most political platforms might be classed as rag-chewing matches, and religious controversies belong in the same category.

Of course the cotton bears are happy. And why not?
The government's estimate of a 11,412,000-bale cotton production in 1923, issued Monday, is too ludicrous for serious consideration; but it is also too serious for comical allusion.

In fact, it is one of the most distressingly serious things in the world, for it is by common acceptance the one controlling factor in spot and contract cotton trading; and all the newspaper and industrial criticisms of it that can be stacked between here and Washington cannot now destroy its effect in costing the holders of cotton in this country millions of dollars.

There are thousands of bales of cotton on the market in Georgia—cotton that cost more to produce than a fair price based upon supply and demand can possibly cover; and yet these holders must be forced to lose millions of dollars by an ill-advised, incomplete, incompetent "estimate" by a bunch of government clerks in Washington who have no more concrete knowledge of actual cotton growing conditions today than they have as to the inhabitation of the planet Mars.

How could they have?
A government estimate, based this early in the growing season, is not worth the paper it is written on; and one of the mysteries of the age is why the government will lend itself to speculative interests by issuing such stuff.

And, if it must, by what process of reasoning, is the result always in the interest of the speculative bears?
What was the cotton crop last year?
Approximately 9,500,000 bales!

Do you recall that just one year ago today the government submitted the 1922 yield at 11,005,000 bales—nearly two million bales more than were actually ginned?
I recall it quite well.

And I recall how cotton broke at the time; and how tears were brought to the eyes of thousands of farmers and how they were forced literally to their knees by the ill-advised, unreliable and wholly discreditable forecast.

And now—
History repeats itself!
It's a shame!
It's a reflection upon the good purposes of this government in protecting its masses against its classes.

The "estimate" of Monday gives the acreage at 38,287,000 as against 34,852,000 a year ago.
This is ridiculous.

In Georgia alone, thousands of acres prepared for cotton have never been planted by reason of excessive rains, and other thousands of acres have already been plowed up and planted to other crops.

It is so all over the belt.
The rains have been excessive from Texas to Carolina, and reports just as reliable as the government's state that the gross belt acreage is actually lower this year than it was a year ago.

And yet—and now mark the discrepancies—
One year ago the belt condition was given at 71.2 and the estimated yield at 11,005,000 whereas the yield proved to be a million and a half bales less; the belt condition as reported Monday is given at only 69.0, and the belt 1923 yield estimated at 400,000 bales more than in 1922.

The government will excuse this, of course, by the alleged increase in acreage, when everybody knows that "acreage" as of this date is no more production acreage than is the proverbial counting the chickens before they are hatched.

The whole system is wrong—in plain English, disgraced. A government report on forecast cotton production at the very beginning of the growing season is as useless as the proverbial counting the chickens before they are hatched.

One member of the family may have his fever when exposed to marsh miasms, still another member of the family may develop typhoid or other miasms (gastroenteric edema) on inhaling horse or dog or cat dander; still another may be made ill by eating a bit of cake which contains white of egg.

The sensitivity of these individuals may be accurately determined now, by skin tests with various protein substances from all known sources; in many cases the sensitivity may be overcome by a course of gradually increasing doses of the substances thus determined, beginning with extremely minute homopathic doses.

Aside from such exceptional infants, almost any normal infant of any age may readily take and thrive upon a simplified feeding formula, that is, when bottle feeding is unavoidable, such as I have already suggested for preparing food for finding an infant over for a temporary famine at the breast. Of course the expert knowledge and skill of the physician in the guidance in all cases of infant feeding, but when such advice cannot be had, this simplified formula may be adopted:

Pure fresh milk, 1 1/2 ounces; sugar, 1 ounce; sugar of milk, 1/2 teaspoonful.

If the purity of the milk is not known or if your health officer does not have control of milk distribution, it is better to boil the milk five minutes.

If sugar of milk (lactose) is too expensive, cane sugar may be used, for infants of any age, though perhaps sugar of milk is preferable.

The formula as given is for just enough for one bottle feeding for a few weeks old. For older infants a larger feeding is necessary, and all quantities may be doubled.

The quantity of sugar given is as much as should ever be used in that amount of food.

If an infant a week or two old were started on this formula, and the formula agreed, the mother should not have control of milk distribution, it is better to boil the milk five minutes.

BITS OF NEW YORK LIFE
BY O. O. MINTYRE

New York, July 2.—If I am just a bit person today I ask indulgence. I must write but I cannot write of New York and its story and confusion. I can think only of the almost inconceivable grief that is mine. My dog Junior has passed on. I use the word "passed" for I know the great soul of him can never die.

As this is written he rests in a little white silk-lined casket in the Riverside cemetery. Above is the cool green grass he loved. Over his mound will be placed a small tombstone with the inscription: "Junior—Faithful to the End." He was all of that, for Junior died a cruel death obeying the command of his master. It was after midnight and Junior and I had gone over to Fifth Avenue for a stroll. Traffic was light and his leash had been removed to give him a few frolicking moments of freedom so dear to city-bred dogs.

At one corner we started to cross the avenue. Junior, as was his custom, sat on the curb for my command. "Go home," I said. He looked at me and after scanning north and south gave him his cry. A few moments later a heavy touring car came unexpectedly and crawled back toward me with great speed. Junior was there. There was a joy-riding yell as the car shot on. As I saw the car I knew it was a joy-riding yell. Junior would not have it so. He was ever forgiving. So I gathered him in my arms and held him until he was whimpering. He had been mine since puppyhood. He was my constant companion. He had traveled with me from coast to coast. He had been with me in the most trying times of my life. He had been with me in the most trying times of my life. He had been with me in the most trying times of my life.

Junior was nearly eight. He was an aristocrat among dogs. He was born on Fifth Avenue and on Fifth Avenue he died. Junior was the last of his kind. He was the last of his kind. He was the last of his kind.

SIMPLIFIED FEEDING FORMULA.

Certain children are greatly upset if they eat the merest speck of certain foods, for which they have what was formerly called an idiosyncrasy. Idiosyncrasy is one of those formidable words some of us doctors try to use when we are not very certain about it.

Nowadays this peculiar reaction of the individual to certain food substances is simply called anaphylaxis or allergy; the individual who reacts to, say, a bit of egg white or a spoonful of milk or a flake of lobster or a taste of strawberry by developing an attack of hives or asthma or a furious upheaval of the digestive tract, is said to be "sensitized" to the protein substance responsible for his difficulty.

In most instances of food anaphylaxis the infant or child develops the sensitized state some time after birth; in very few is the child born with such a hypersensitive or idiosyncrasy.

The sensitivity of these individuals may be accurately determined now, by skin tests with various protein substances from all known sources; in many cases the sensitivity may be overcome by a course of gradually increasing doses of the substances thus determined, beginning with extremely minute homopathic doses.

Aside from such exceptional infants, almost any normal infant of any age may readily take and thrive upon a simplified feeding formula, that is, when bottle feeding is unavoidable, such as I have already suggested for preparing food for finding an infant over for a temporary famine at the breast. Q—Are snails used for food? Are they wholesome?
A—The snail is used extensively for food in many European countries, especially in France. It is considered quite a delicacy. For various reasons it is not accepted by Americans in general. A matter of fact, the snail is one of the cleanest of mollusks, and is strictly vegetarian, its food consisting of the most delicate vegetables only.

Q—What is the oldest city in existence?
A—Damascus.

Q—From where did voodooism come?
A—It was formerly thought that voodooism came from west Africa to the West Indies and southern United States; but later research indicates that there are no recognized beliefs and ceremonies which could be regarded as a voodoo religion, but this term is merely applied to various magical practices which have been common the world over.

Q—What is the status of the Baghdad railway?
A—It is exceedingly complicated. A firm of English capitalists has acquired one-third of the shares of this railway, which shares formerly belonged to German interests. The concessions in Asia Minor thus obtained conflict with the Chester concessions recently given to the Americans by the Turkish government, and the situation is even more complicated by reason of the fact that certain French interests questioned the validity of the shares acquired by the British interests, and a conference has been called in London to determine what participation shall be given French and Italian interests. Meanwhile the line is operated by the British.

Q—Where is the Mont Cenis tunnel, why is it important, and what are its dimensions?
A—This tunnel through the Alps was the first to place France in direct communication with Italy. It passes from a point near Modane, in France, under the Col de Frejus, about 18 miles west of the actual Mont Cenis, into Italian territory, at a point near Bardonecchia, about 24 miles from Susa. The length of the tunnel is about 7,016 miles. The side walls are 8 feet 6 inches thick throughout. The work was begun in 1857, and for three years hard labor was used entirely, but it was planned to introduce machinery ultimately. In 1861 power drills were put to work, and in 1872 the tunnel was open for traffic.

Q—Has any Filipino been graduated from the Naval Academy at Annapolis?
A—Yes, Jose F. Oliveros, of Iloilo, P. I. He stood first in the subject of modern languages in a class of 414 graduates, and ninety-ninth in order of merit in this class of 414, although he was handicapped by months of serious illness during his course. There are two other Filipinos at the academy at present, Emilio M. Bataga and Bienvenido M. Alba.

Q—What is the proper length for a formal call?
A—The first and formal call should be given after 10 o'clock in the morning. Usually not over fifteen minutes.

Q—What is a remedy for bad breath?
A—It is well to keep a jar of bicarbonate of soda and take a teaspoonful of this in a glass of water whenever needed. Also prevent this condition by drinking 10 or three glasses of water on rising.

Q—What is the derivation of the word "conjunction"?
A—From the Latin "con," meaning "with," and the Latin "jungo," meaning "join," thus a connecting word.

Q—How may X-ray specialists get pictures of the stomach or other soft parts of the body which are not opaque-like bones?
A—By giving the patient about a pint of some substance opaque to X-rays, such as barium carbonate, the passage of the mixture can be recorded and the outline of the stomach and intestines made clearly visible. In this way ulcers of the stomach are often definitely located.

Q—What is the history of the late Earl Carnarvon?
A—George Edward Stanhope Molyneux Herbert, Earl of Carnarvon, Baron Porchester, of Highclere country, Southampton, born June 26, 1866; he succeeded his father as the fifth Earl in 1900; married June 28, 1918, to Almina Victoria, daughter of the late Frederick Charles Woodville.

Q—How is lime produced from limestone?
A—The best lime is yielded by the densest limestone, the quality of the lime depending further upon the duration of the heating process and the degree of heat to which the limestone is subjected. The heating process is carried on in kilns, a good draft being required to render it effective.

Q—Where is the Kiel canal and what are its length, depth, etc.?
A—From Hollenau, on the Baltic, to Brunsbuttel, on the Elbe. Length 60 miles; the bottom has been increased to 140 feet, and the surface to 330 feet, while the depth is 36 feet, so that the largest naval warship could pass through the locks. By this canal sea-going ships can save 200 miles of sailing from the Baltic to the North sea.

Q—How can one bleach a Panama hat?
A—Wash the hat clean, and while slightly damp expose it to the fumes of burning sulphur in a closed vessel.

A—Damascus.

Q—From where did voodooism come?
A—It was formerly thought that voodooism came from west Africa to the West Indies and southern United States; but later research indicates that there are no recognized beliefs and ceremonies which could be regarded as a voodoo religion, but this term is merely applied to various magical practices which have been common the world over.

Q—What is the status of the Baghdad railway?
A—It is exceedingly complicated. A firm of English capitalists has acquired one-third of the shares of this railway, which shares formerly belonged to German interests. The concessions in Asia Minor thus obtained conflict with the Chester concessions recently given to the Americans by the Turkish government, and the situation is even more complicated by reason of the fact that certain French interests questioned the validity of the shares acquired by the British interests, and a conference has been called in London to determine what participation shall be given French and Italian interests. Meanwhile the line is operated by the British.

Q—Where is the Mont Cenis tunnel, why is it important, and what are its dimensions?
A—This tunnel through the Alps was the first to place France in direct communication with Italy. It passes from a point near Modane, in France, under the Col de Frejus, about 18 miles west of the actual Mont Cenis, into Italian territory, at a point near Bardonecchia, about 24 miles from Susa. The length of the tunnel is about 7,016 miles. The side walls are 8 feet 6 inches thick throughout. The work was begun in 1857, and for three years hard labor was used entirely, but it was planned to introduce machinery ultimately. In 1861 power drills were put to work, and in 1872 the tunnel was open for traffic.

Q—Has any Filipino been graduated from the Naval Academy at Annapolis?
A—Yes, Jose F. Oliveros, of Iloilo, P. I. He stood first in the subject of modern languages in a class of 414 graduates, and ninety-ninth in order of merit in this class of 414, although he was handicapped by months of serious illness during his course. There are two other Filipinos at the academy at present, Emilio M. Bataga and Bienvenido M. Alba.

Q—What is the proper length for a formal call?
A—The first and formal call should be given after 10 o'clock in the morning. Usually not over fifteen minutes.

Q—What is a remedy for bad breath?
A—It is well to keep a jar of bicarbonate of soda and take a teaspoonful of this in a glass of water whenever needed. Also prevent this condition by drinking 10 or three glasses of water on rising.

Q—What is the derivation of the word "conjunction"?
A—From the Latin "con," meaning "with," and the Latin "jungo," meaning "join," thus a connecting word.

Q—How may X-ray specialists get pictures of the stomach or other soft parts of the body which are not opaque-like bones?
A—By giving the patient about a pint of some substance opaque to X-rays, such as barium carbonate, the passage of the mixture can be recorded and the outline of the stomach and intestines made clearly visible. In this way ulcers of the stomach are often definitely located.

Q—What is the history of the late Earl Carnarvon?
A—George Edward Stanhope Molyneux Herbert, Earl of Carnarvon, Baron Porchester, of Highclere country, Southampton, born June 26, 1866; he succeeded his father as the fifth Earl in 1900; married June 28, 1918, to Almina Victoria, daughter of the late Frederick Charles Woodville.

Q—How is lime produced from limestone?
A—The best lime is yielded by the densest limestone, the quality of the lime depending further upon the duration of the heating process and the degree of heat to which the limestone is subjected. The heating process is carried on in kilns, a good draft being required to render it effective.

Q—Where is the Kiel canal and what are its length, depth, etc.?
A—From Hollenau, on the Baltic, to Brunsbuttel, on the Elbe. Length 60 miles; the bottom has been increased to 140 feet, and the surface to 330 feet, while the depth is 36 feet, so that the largest naval warship could pass through the locks. By this canal sea-going ships can save 200 miles of sailing from the Baltic to the North sea.

Q—How can one bleach a Panama hat?
A—Wash the hat clean, and while slightly damp expose it to the fumes of burning sulphur in a closed vessel.

Q—Who designed the Brooklyn Bridge?
A—John A. Roebling. After his death, his son Washington A. Roebling, completed the details of the design.

Vigorous Campaign Will Be Made for Park Issue

Leading Civic Organizations Are Backing Movement and Will Make Effort to Poll Big Majority For Bonds.

Following action of council Monday to give the people of Atlanta the right to vote September 5 upon the question of issuing bonds to the amount of $2,000,000 for the establishment and extension of parks in the city, the civic organizations will immediately start a vigorous campaign for authorization of the bond measure by the people.

Of the $2,000,000 asked for park purposes, $900,000 is to be used for the establishment of Central park, a big new playground that is proposed for the old "tan yard" section of the city lying between Cain street and North avenue, comprising about 80 acres near the center of Atlanta. The remainder will be devoted to the betterment and extension of a number of city parks already established.

Proposed by Kiser. The big Central park was first proposed by Marion C. Kiser, one of the best known real estate men in the city, whose idea was immediately taken up and fostered by the Atlanta real estate board and other civic organizations, all of whom worked for the passage of the measure giving the question to the people to decide.

In addition to campaign committees that have been appointed by President George M. Brown, Jr., of the Atlanta real estate board, other leading civic bodies will enter into the campaign with enthusiasm, appointing committees to aid in the movement.

The original boundaries of the big Central park, before being adjusted by the city planning board, took in the 120-acre area between Cain, Williams and Lovejoy streets and North avenue. The "amended" boundaries, giving the park 80 acres are Mills, Fowler and Williams street and North avenue.

Plan to Push Work. With the purchase of this big property, most of which is said to be covered with the cheaper class of residences, it is said to be the plan of the Central park backers to immediately begin the establishment of the playground, making it one of the most up-to-date and magnificent recreation grounds to be found in the south.

Special park and playground architects are to be employed and everything possible will be done to make it the greatest recreation center in the world. Especially enthusiastic over the park project, the leaders of the Atlanta Woman's club have prepared for a most active and intensive campaign. When told of the action of general council last night, Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, president of the organization, expressed great delight over the fact that the people will be permitted to express themselves at the polls regarding the plan to issue the $2,000,000 bonds for parks. Mrs. Richardson also declared that the women of her organization are enthusiastically in favor of the park enterprise and that she has every confidence in the effectiveness of the committee she has named to aid in the coming campaign.

President George M. Brown, Jr., of the Atlanta real estate board, has also selected a number of members of the organization he heads to work for the bonds, as have other civic organizations.

Committees Named. The committees named by various organizations to take part in the park bond issue campaign are given below:

Atlanta Hotel Men's Association—H. A. Tiedel, James F. DeJarnette and Hugh F. Calvin.
Y. W. C. A.—Mrs. A. R. Colcord, Mrs. Plato Durham and Mrs. M. Ashby Jones.
Business Women's League, Y. W. C. A.—Mrs. W. W. Richardson, Miss Bessie Young, Miss Mabel Robson, Miss Mabel Magruder, Miss Pauline Martin, Miss Bessie Campbell, Miss Ethel Holbrook, Miss Jane Bond.
Fourth Ward Civic Club—Louis F. Cox, president.
Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs—Mrs. T. T. Stevens, Mrs. Albert Thornton, Mrs. Eugene Harrington, Mrs. R. E. Rambo, Mrs. Spencer Alderson.
Women's Division, Chamber of Commerce—Miss Elizabeth Smith, Miss Jane L. Bond, Miss Nell Hollingsworth, Miss Mabel Kendrick, Miss Jane Van de Vrede.
Ninth Ward Civic Association—Arthur L. Brook, H. Press Huddleston, George W. West.

In addition to these will be many other committees, it is expected, from civic bodies not yet acting upon the matter, as well as a large number of public-spirited citizens who will work individually for the bonds. No local movement of its nature in several years, it is believed, has had a more solid or concerted backing than the Central park project.

Among the individuals who have accepted positions on the general city campaign committee for the $2,000,000 park bond issue are:

stated by motion of Councilman Baker to adopt a resolution which included a list of pensioners recommended by the city health officer. The pension list had been abolished at a previous meeting in order to enable a revision which would eliminate pensioners who were not entitled to pensions.

Council approved the street committee's plan for building the Hunter street approach to the Spring street viaduct and for opening Broad street from Mitchell to Whitehall. The ordinance prepared by the street committee were introduced and moved for passage by Councilman Ashley, chairman of the committee, and were adopted without dissent. The Hunter street approach is to be built by creating a special tax zone to assess benefited property owners an amount sufficient to indemnify damaged property owners. Mr. Ashley stated that the ordinance with its list of assessments will probably have to be tested in the courts before it will become effective.

The Broad street opening ordinance places the official stamp of the city's approval on the project and will make it easier for the sponsors of the movement to enlist affected property owners in the plan voluntarily and

NEW LABOR CHIEF

M. J. Perkins, new labor chief.

M. J. Perkins would be tied for the place on the first ballot with W. M. Bearden, for 15 years chief clerk in the assessors' office, either participating in the tie or running dangerously close behind. The first ballot did not develop that situation, with 12 votes each for Burton and Perkins and 11 votes for Bearden. On the second ballot Bearden held his strength while two votes switched from Burton to Perkins. On the third ballot Bearden's following dwindled to four, McLendon, Ashley, Dyer and Walls, most of it switching to Perkins, who received 18 votes, winning the election over Burton, who received 13 votes.

The Final Ballot. Those who voted for Perkins on the last ballot were: Hartsfield, Armistead, Buchanan, Williamson, Ragsdale, Carpenter, Buchanan, Beall, Woodall, Greer, Vaughan, Watkins, Russell, Knight, Cooper, Olson, Johnson and Cassels. Those who voted for Burton on the last ballot were: Gordon, Cochran, Hunter, Wardlaw, Pennington, Moore, Ehrhard, Couch, Baker, York, Jenkins, Callaway and Gilliam.

Immediately after adjournment of council, the labor committee met and returned Bearden to his place as chief clerk in the assessors' office by unanimous vote.

Hancock was returned to office on the first ballot, defeating Dr. Drew Liddell, 27 to 9.

All the members of the board of assessors are understood to be committed to Mayor Sims' program for adjusting the assessments on downtown properties to make them liable to taxation more in accordance with their actual value than they have been assessed in the past.

Former Governor Nat E. Harris entered the council chamber shortly before the finance sheet came up for consideration and remained until after council had passed it. The sheet includes an appropriation of $10,000 to Georgia Tech, of which Governor Harris is a trustee.

Council adopted the park committee's recommendation to spend $250,000 received from a Washington park concession, to place benches, swings and plumbing connections in the park.

Will Attend Barbecue. Council accepted by unanimous vote an invitation, extended through Alderman Gordon, for all members to attend the Elks' barbecue at Lakewood park, July 11.

The prison committee's request for an appropriation of $900 to install a

The January finance sheet, under which the expenses of the city have been met during the first half of the year, became operative July 1, under charter provision requiring that the budget be balanced again in June.

The June finance sheet, as a result of Alderman Carpenter's move to reconsider, cannot be under any condition made operative until general council and the aldermanic board meet again Monday, July 10. The regular semi-monthly city pay day for the middle of the month, falls this month on Sunday, July 15, and according to long established custom, the city's employees would have been paid off Saturday, July 14. No funds, however, will be available for any department until the June finance sheet is finally adopted. The city will, therefore, be compelled to "pass the pay roll" this month.

50 Men to Be Dropped. The sheet, as originally prepared by the finance committee as adopted by council Monday and as held up for reconsideration by Alderman Carpenter, provides for several strokes in the direction of economy, including the cutting off of 50 city employees. Fifteen of these have already been dropped from the construction department in anticipation of passage of the budget, although Chief of Construction Hansell stated, in dropping them, that their loss would impair the service rendered by the department.

Alderman Carpenter's reason for holding up the sheet was that the elimination of men in the construction, waterworks, sanitary and other departments would tend to impair the service in all departments. He was sustained by Alderman Bachman in contending that service would be impaired but Alderman Carpenter did not become a party to holding up the entire budget program.

General council at its last session had amended the budget sheet, as proposed by the finance committee, to save the jobs of 50 men ordered dropped from the pay roll. In its amended form the sheet had been passed by council and by the aldermanic board. Mayor Sims had vetoed the sheet because of the amendments. When it came back with the Mayor's veto, council voted overwhelmingly to sustain the Mayor's veto and then to pass the sheet in its original form and in accordance with the wishes of the Mayor and finance committee.

Offer Compromise. In an effort to save the finance program from being held up by Alderman Carpenter, an offer was made by Alderman I. N. Ragsdale, chairman of the finance committee, to call the committee in an immediate session to make provision for maintaining service in the affected departments. Other members of the board tried to persuade Alderman Carpenter to let the budget program go through without, as Alderman J. L. McLendon said, "throwing a monkey wrench into the finance machinery." Their efforts were of no avail.

Alderman Ragsdale stated that the finance committee would be called in session before the next regular meeting of council July 10 to try again to adjust the differences among members of the general council over the lengths to which the city is prepared to go in its program of economy.

In protesting against the immediate reduction in the working force in the water department, Alderman Bachman, chairman of the water committee, stated that plans are now being made to install accounting and billing machinery which will ultimately enable the department to reduce its office force by six or eight people. These changes can not be made, however, within less than 60 to 90 days, he said. In the meantime, the reduction in personnel would work a hardship on the present force. He also protested against further burdens being placed on the meter inspectors and meter readers.

"The city is growing rapidly," Mr. Bachman said, "and the number of water consumers is growing with it, increasing the work of the water department almost daily."

Carpenter's Objection. Alderman Carpenter, in giving his reasons for moving to reconsider, referred to the plight in which the sanitary department would be placed should its working force be reduced. "Garbage is piling up faster than it can be removed now," he said.

The race for the tax assessor's places was brought to a conclusion more quickly than many city hall politicians had expected. It was known before council met that A. C. Burton, incumbent, and Harry boiler at the city stockade to remedy bad water conditions was referred to the finance committee.

On motion of Councilman Bell, the office of the inspector of weights and measures is to be removed from the city hall to the police station.

Councilman Caselli introduced an ordinance providing for three year terms for tax assessors and for the election of one each year. The ordinance was referred to the committee on charter revision.

St. Phillips A. M. E. church was given permission to sell tags on the streets July 14 to raise funds toward paying of the indebtedness on its new $25,000 building on the corner of Selman and Wylie streets.

Councilman Olson, for the bridge committee, introduced the ordinance closing and vacating Spring and Bartow streets between the Seaboard driveway and the Western and Atlanta right of way, the parts of the streets which are supplanted by the Spring street viaduct.

CLUB WITHDRAWALS ALL OPPOSITION TO HEALTH RESORT

The Buckhead Improvement club, composed of residents and property owners of the north side of the county and Peachtree Road section, held a meeting at the county school house Monday night. One of the chief objects was to determine upon a course relative to the proposed erection by Dr. W. W. Blackman of a health and tourist resort near the Seaboard bridge, on Peachtree Road, to be known as Blackman Terrace.

A number of prominent citizens discussed the proposed plans and character of the resort. It was represented that that desirable buildings and grounds would be maintained, that it would attract visitors from all sections and that there would be no surgical, contagious, alcohol or drug habit treatments given, but that it would be a place of rest, baths and diet. The club took action, withdrawing its opposition toward the proposed resort, and agreed to encourage its establishment.

A committee was appointed to urge the adoption by the present legislature of a measure which would legalize the appropriation of funds for the general county treasury to supplement the school fund, and also a bill giving the county commissioners authority to provide electric lights in sections of the county where it is regarded advisable.

Upon the approach of the officers the man was said to have drawn a large caliber pistol while the woman at the same time covered the posse with an automatic shotgun. The four deputies opened fire. Killing the couple instantly. The liquor still found at the scene was declared to have been the largest of approximately fifty captured in the county within the last few months.

CHILD SWALLOWS SOLUTION OF LYE; CONDITION SERIOUS

The condition of two-year-old Maybelle Barber, morning swallowed a quantity of lye solution, remained critical late Monday night with only a fighting chance for her to live, according to doctors at the Grady hospital.

The child is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Barber, 51 Wyman avenue. Maybelle had just gone to her mother's sight in the back of the house when Mrs. Barber heard her scream. Rushing to her assistance, the mother found her mouth discolored and burned from the solution.

ALL-DAY PROGRAM Church of Epiphany Announces July 4 Plans.

An all-day program of entertainment is planned for July 4, at the new parish house of the Church of the Epiphany, at Cleburne and Sinclair avenues, H. G. King, chairman of the committee, announced Monday. Contests and games and various entertainments have been arranged. Refreshments will be served, and at night the program will be concluded with motion pictures and fireworks. Proceeds will go to the community playground fund.

Pimples

BLOOD impurities are pumped by the heart into the face. That is what causes that grainy appearance, that muddiness, sallowness, pimples, blackheads, acne, red spots, and that impossible "something" which no face cream, massage, or face powder can cover up or beautify! The foundation for a beautiful skin simply is not there, and no face treatment can give it to you. But increase your red-blood-cells, and quickly the ruby tint of purity begins to glow in the cheeks, the complexion becomes rosy-like and immaculate! Try it. It will do it every time. S. S. S. builds the red-blood-cells you need for a beautiful complexion. Begin using S. S. S. at once, and give yourself what you have been working for, for years.

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

The Ruby--- Birthstone For July.

The Ruby is the most valuable of all Corundums.

Fine Rubies, over one carat in size, are from two to five times more valuable than diamonds of the same quality and size.

The "pigeon's blood" is the hue most desirable and is the color of arterial blood. A Ruby is rarely ever found perfect, brilliancy and color being of most importance.

They vary in color from light rose to deep crimson. They are found in Siam, Ceylon, Burmah, Brazil, Hindustan, Borneo, Sumatra, Australia, France and Germany.

Pimples

BLOOD impurities are pumped by the heart into the face. That is what causes that grainy appearance, that muddiness, sallowness, pimples, blackheads, acne, red spots, and that impossible "something" which no face cream, massage, or face powder can cover up or beautify! The foundation for a beautiful skin simply is not there, and no face treatment can give it to you. But increase your red-blood-cells, and quickly the ruby tint of purity begins to glow in the cheeks, the complexion becomes rosy-like and immaculate! Try it. It will do it every time. S. S. S. builds the red-blood-cells you need for a beautiful complexion. Begin using S. S. S. at once, and give yourself what you have been working for, for years.

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

The committees named by various organizations to take part in the park bond issue campaign are given below:

Atlanta Hotel Men's Association—H. A. Tiedel, James F. DeJarnette and Hugh F. Calvin.
Y. W. C. A.—Mrs. A. R. Colcord, Mrs. Plato Durham and Mrs. M. Ashby Jones.
Business Women's League, Y. W. C. A.—Mrs. W. W. Richardson, Miss Bessie Young, Miss Mabel Robson, Miss Mabel Magruder, Miss Pauline Martin, Miss Bessie Campbell, Miss Ethel Holbrook, Miss Jane Bond.
Fourth Ward Civic Club—Louis F. Cox, president.
Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs—Mrs. T. T. Stevens, Mrs. Albert Thornton, Mrs. Eugene Harrington, Mrs. R. E. Rambo, Mrs. Spencer Alderson.
Women's Division, Chamber of Commerce—Miss Elizabeth Smith, Miss Jane L. Bond, Miss Nell Hollingsworth, Miss Mabel Kendrick, Miss Jane Van de Vrede.
Ninth Ward Civic Association—Arthur L. Brook, H. Press Huddleston, George W. West.

In addition to these will be many other committees, it is expected, from civic bodies not yet acting upon the matter, as well as a large number of public-spirited citizens who will work individually for the bonds. No local movement of its nature in several years, it is believed, has had a more solid or concerted backing than the Central park project.

Among the individuals who have accepted positions on the general city campaign committee for the $2,000,000 park bond issue are:

stated by motion of Councilman Baker to adopt a resolution which included a list of pensioners recommended by the city health officer. The pension list had been abolished at a previous meeting in order to enable a revision which would eliminate pensioners who were not entitled to pensions.

Council approved the street committee's plan for building the Hunter street approach to the Spring street viaduct and for opening Broad street from Mitchell to Whitehall. The ordinance prepared by the street committee were introduced and moved for passage by Councilman Ashley, chairman of the committee, and were adopted without dissent. The Hunter street approach is to be built by creating a special tax zone to assess benefited property owners an amount sufficient to indemnify damaged property owners. Mr. Ashley stated that the ordinance with its list of assessments will probably have to be tested in the courts before it will become effective.

The Broad street opening ordinance places the official stamp of the city's approval on the project and will make it easier for the sponsors of the movement to enlist affected property owners in the plan voluntarily and

"TIGER" FLOWERS AND "TUT" JACKSON MEET TONIGHT

Tim O'Dowd Will Also Fight Stanley Meehan on Same Card; Other Fights Arranged

Freddie Boorde Meets Billy Dale Before O'Dowd Bout—52 Rounds of Boxing Scheduled on Monster Card.

Atlanta's biggest boxing show is the promise of the promoters for tonight's program of fistfights carded at the auditorium. Fifty-two rounds of boxing, in which boxes of prominence mingle from ten to twelve rounds, will be the offering, with Tut Jackson, Washington Court House, light-heavyweight, facing Tiger Flowers, "uncrowned colored middleweight champion of the world," in the main go.

Nothing has been left undone to make the show a real feature event, well worthy of a place as the Independence day program. Four ten-round bouts and the twelve-round main go stack up as the most extensive card of boxing ever staged in this section, and the caliber of the fighters serves to make it the most expensive, according to the promoters.

Owing to the length of the session it has been decided to open the list of events promptly at 8 o'clock. The Griffin-Davis bout, between light-heavyweights, will be the beginner, followed by the Freddie Boorde-Billy Dale match. Next will come a bout well worthy of a place as a main go attraction, Stanley Meehan, Chicago featherweight, meeting Tim O'Dowd, claimant of the southern featherweight championship.

The colored fights will be last, Rufus Cameron and Kid Brown mixing it up immediately before Flowers and Jackson get into action.

Hutchison and Barnes Have Good Chances in Open

Special Arrangements have been made to take care of the crowd, separate entrances having been provided for colored patrons on the Gilmer street side of the auditorium. Special box offices handle the tickets to the colored sections.

The house will be considerably augmented by out-of-town visitors, numerous applications for tickets having been filed. Several newspapers out of the city will have staff representatives at the ringside.

Flowers and Jackson will weigh in at 3 o'clock. Flowers is expected to scale around 165 pounds, while Jackson has posted a cash forfeit to make 175 pounds for the bout. It was considered certain Monday night that the big Ohio battler would be unable to come inside the prescribed poundage, and Walt Miller, manager of Flowers, declared that he will claim the forfeit and have Flowers fight Jackson regardless. Jackson is said to get the highest guarantee ever paid for a fighter in Atlanta.

Should Be Good Bout.

The main go should be a corking good fight, provided an early knockout does not settle the argument. Flowers' recent triumph over Gans, together with a long record of wins in the United States and Mexico, have made him one of the most widely recognized middleweights in the country.

A victory over Jackson would assure him of a number of bouts immediately in the north and east, and despite his disadvantage in the matter of weight he is going in to win. If he manages to stay out of the way of Jackson's powerful right-hand punch he has a good chance, but Tut's fame as a knockout artist has made the inside something of a favorite locally. Only once has Jackson been stopped, and then by Harry Wills, 220-pound challenger for Dempsey's crown.

INSURANCE TEAMS PLAY

By M. D. OLESON.
Dargan & Turner won from the Firemen's Fund at Piedmont Park yesterday afternoon by the score of 4 to 1 in a well-played game.

Lefty Williams, the top league star, was on the mound for Dargan & Turner and he struck out 10 men.

Williams has gone extra good in the insurance league in the last three games he pitched. In the game yesterday he only gave up three hits and had the game in hand at all times.

By winning yesterday's game Dargan & Turner still share honors with the Royal Insurance team for first place in the insurance league, neither team having lost a game so far this season.

The leaders will not meet until July 10, and everybody connected with this league predicts that when they do play the best crowd of the year will be at this game.

Dargan & Turner play the Hartford Insurance team today and the Royal play the Southeastern Underwriters.

Both games will be played at Piedmont park today and the public is cordially invited to attend.

MRS. MALLORY IS DEFEATED

Wimbledon, July 2.—(By the Associated Press.)—The tennis lovers of this world will have to get along all summer without either seeing or reading about a match between Suzanne Lenglen, of Europe, and Mrs. Molla Mallory, of America. For this, Mrs. A. E. Beamish, one of Great Britain's best tennis players, is to blame.

It was she who stopped Mrs. Mallory this afternoon just when the American champion was rushing toward another collision with Suzanne Lenglen, of Europe, and Mrs. Molla Mallory, of America. For this, Mrs. A. E. Beamish, one of Great Britain's best tennis players, is to blame.

The fall of Mrs. Mallory in a closely contested three-set struggle this afternoon was no surprise to those who follow the game. Mrs. Beamish had once before defeated the American champion and she has long been regarded as in the first to fight English women players. Her success today came as a sort of avenging triumph, for it was Mrs. Mallory who put her out of the running at Wimbledon last year.

The score today was 4-6, 7-5, 6-4. Not many spectators saw the match, as Mrs. Langlen played simultaneously on an outside court. Suzanne draws the crowd, no matter how certain it is that she will crush her opponent. She did so today, defeating Mrs. Beamish, of England, with the loss of only three games. She will play Mrs. Beamish tomorrow or Wednesday.

Johnson Off Form.

William M. Johnson, of California, the favorite to win the men's championship, had an off day, and for the first time in this tournament lost a set. It was to Cecil Campbell, the Irish champion, who finally flickered out before Johnson's superior skill. The scores were 6-1, 5-7, 6-2, 6-2.

Johnson will meet Norton, to get into the finals in the lower half, must dispose of Count de Gomar, of Spain, tomorrow.

Soon after Mrs. Mallory's defeat, another American woman, Eleanor Goss, passed out. She had to meet Mrs. Kathleen McKane, who ranks as number one in England. Miss Goss gathered in two games in each set, but she could not parry the versatile shots of Miss McKane's racket with any certainty.

Miss McKane, in the lower half semi-finals, will meet the Californian, Miss Elizabeth Ryan, who resides in England, and who defeated Miss Rose, of England, in love sets today.

Chicks Sign Pitcher.

Middletown, Conn., July 2.—Tony Wesoowski, 19, who has been pitching for semi-professional baseball teams in this section, has been signed by Memphis of the Southern association. In the last five games pitched for the Norwich state hospital nine he fanned 90 batters.

England will give Iraq up, it is reported—providing she can find the country.

Brown Asserts Hutchison Is Certain to Be Found With Leaders in Tourney

The Fact That Hutchison Failed to Join the American Team in Golf Invasion Probably Helped His Game.

Of the brilliant entries in this year's open golf championship, who have not yet won the title, none will compete with a better chance for success than Jack Hutchison, professional at the Glen View Golf club of Chicago. In his superlative moods, Hutchison is the peer of any golfer living for super-brilliant play. His record bristles with a series of accomplishments at various times that verge on wizardry, yet he has never been able to win the United States open championship.

Last year he played wonderful golf in the qualifying rounds, but had the luck to be drawn on the first of the three days for qualifying. Rain, causing a postponement, added another day's delay, and he had to wait three full days between the finish of his qualifying effort and his start in the championship proper. The strain proved too much. He is a very nervous and high strung player and this delay frayed his nerves, so he never got going.

This year he did not make the trip to England and Scotland for the British open, but the probabilities are that this will work to his benefit rather than disadvantage. He will have had time to work onto the top of his game by easy strides and will enter the fray keen for the game. This may prove to be his year. He is almost a certainty to finish up among the leaders, and it will be no wise surprising if he becomes the winner of the championship for 1923.

Hutchison is a Scot by birth, having been born at St. Andrews, Scotland, but he has been in this country for almost twenty years and has become a naturalized citizen. He scored his greatest triumph on the historic course of old gray city in 1921, when he won the British open championship in the play-off of a tie with Roger Wethered, the present British amateur champion. He won the Professional Golfers' association championship in 1920 and the Western open the same year. He has twice been runner-up in the Western and was also runner-up in the U. S. open at Minikahda, near Minneapolis in 1916, being beaten by Chick Evans by a single stroke.

Hutchison's outstanding feature of play is his great quick-stroke approach with a masher-niblick. He is generally credited with being the greatest exponent of this stroke in the country, his skill with this club being almost uncanny. He uses a driver weighing 13 1/4 ounces with a shaft a fraction over 41 inches in length. He is one well known professional who prefers an aluminum putter with the flat sole rather than the clock type of club.

BARNES IS GIVEN EXCELLENT CHANCE.

James M. ("Long Jim") Barnes, professional at the Pelham Country club near New York, is one of the ex-champions who is still rated with an excellent chance to renew his hold on the United States Open Golf championship. Barnes has held every golf title of any consequence in this country, his list of achievements including the National open, the Professional Golfers' association championship, the Western, the Pacific Northwest, and so on, to say nothing of some twelve other smaller events.

He is an adopted son, having been born in Cornwall, England, but has been living in this country for some seventeen years, and has achieved his prominence as a golfer on this side of the water, though the foundation for his game was laid in his boyhood in Cornwall, where among other things he acquired a strong liking for run-up approach shots as opposed to pitched approaches, where the conditions to be met will permit.

Barnes has made four tries for the British open championship. In 1920, he finished sixth at Deal, six strokes behind George Duncan, the winner. In 1921, he was fifth and in 1922 he tied with George Duncan for second place, a stroke back of Hagen, who won. His trip over this year proved a keen disappointment, when he missed qualifying by a single stroke. However, this was due largely to a streak of erratic putting. Ordinarily, he is a very fine putter, and if his putting touch has returned by the time the U. S. open rolls around, he gives full promise of proving one of the strongest factors in the field, since he likes the fast greens in the approaching championship, and if he does, he will prove one of the strongest challengers for Gene Sarazen's crown. Barnes uses a driver that weighs 13 1/2 ounces with a shaft about 42 inches long.

MANAGER IS ASKED FOR RESIGNATION.

Petersburg, Va., July 2.—George Block, manager of the Petersburg club of the Virginia league, today was asked to resign, Fred Webster, business manager, announced. The request was made by the board of directors of the club, it was stated, because of dissatisfaction among the players, lack of coordination and loss of games through poor baseball strategy. The club, it was added, is prepared to pay Block his salary for the entire season.

Block managed the St. Petersburg club of the Florida State league last year. He took charge of the local club at the beginning of the season when Petersburg re-entered the Virginia league under the franchise held by Newport News. From the start to this season the local club has occupied the cellar position.

the fourth and the fans predict that the game will be the fastest and closest ever played in Atlanta. Several new and excellent polo ponies will be seen in action for the first time by Atlanta polo fans and the players on both teams include some of the best in the south.

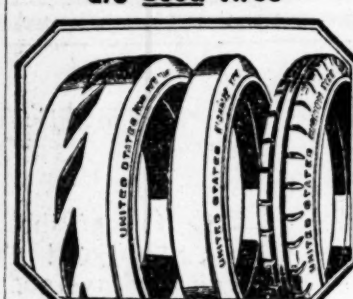

"Pete" Stone, one of the players who introduced polo into Atlanta, is captain of the "Yellows" and will ride his "fast as lightning" pony, "Casey". His players include Carl Loder, who is another exceptionally fast polo pony that he himself trained, R. S. Dunaway, and "Jake" Millican. Fans declare that this group of players and ponies are exceptionally good. Stone was a former player on a U. S. cavalry polo team and Dunaway and Loder were on the first polo team ever formed in Atlanta.

Many Experienced Players. Captain F. E. Bertholet, of the U. S. cavalry, north Georgia division, who is in charge of the horses of the Governor's Horse guards, troop C, One Hundred and Eighty cavalry, and who is a polo player of long experience and many laurels, is captain of the "Greens". The "Green" players include W. U. Morgan, C. G. Williams, and Ray Love, Moran, who rides a fast pony that he himself trained, and Bertholet, were members of Atlanta's first polo team, and Williams and Love are both experienced players. Rooters for the "Greens" declare that his lineup cannot be outplayed.

Lieutenant Theodore Gonsky will referee the game. Trooper Frank Hudson will be official timekeeper. The game will begin at 3 o'clock and consist of five "heats" of seven and one-half minutes each. Admission is free.

GREENVILLE WINS 8 TO 2.

Greenville, S. C., July 2.—Two triples, an error and a single were enough for Greenville to score three runs in the third inning of today's game, thereby taking the opening contest of the second half of the season from Spartanburg by a 8 to 2 count. The Spinnery men were in the second and seventh innings, being secured by an error hitting.

Al Yeagin was effective up to the fifth inning and only one Spartan reached first base. The first four frames Kelly drove in the third inning. In the seventh and eighth innings, a desperate try for the game, but fast fielding and Yeagin's ability with strikeouts and the Spartan's error down the line secured the victory for Greenville. Kelly drove in a home run in the seventh and Kelly drove in a home run in the eighth. In the eighth frame Kelly hit a home run and was forced at second by Burkett who went to the keyhole on Spinnery's pass ball. Kelly again scored the runner with a double to right field.

Yeagin fanned eight of the visiting batters, five of the strikeouts coming in the first four innings. Beck and Lacy led Greenville's attack with the willow.

The Spinnery manager secured a triple with Lacy on third as a result of a like blow. Burkett and Taylor furnished the fielding features of the game with pick-ups of hard grounders.

CHARLOTTE WINS OPENER.

Charlotte, N. C., July 2.—Charlotte won its first game in the second half of the season from Columbia by a score of 2 to 1 in one of the prettiest games seen here this year. The game was a close one, with both teams hitting well. Bolt and Kelley continued throughout the nine innings with the odds slightly favoring Bolt. Kelley scratched one through the eighth, but he was wild and walked eight men. Kelley allowed nine hits, but he issued a couple of free passes.

Charlotte fans gave Bill Butts, local outfielder, a good hand when he appeared at bat in a Columbia uniform. Butts has been made manager of the Columbia club for the second half of the season. He played right field in rather sensational manner and got one of the four hits, a double which he attempted to stretch for an extra base and caught.

The locals annexed their two runs in the fourth frame when Pascual led the inning with a triple against centerfield fence. Holtzcliff scratched one through the eighth, scored him. Carlisle put Holtzcliff on third with a single, and Krehmeyer singled. After that there was nothing doing for the locals.

In the sixth inning Bolt got wild and passed Snipes and Sikes in succession. Butts laid down a perfect sacrifice and advanced the runners. Snipes counted when Chisholm hit a slow one to Krehmeyer.

Unique Dinner Honors Committee.

A lovely social affair of Saturday evening was the dinner party given at the Atlanta Woman's club for the members of the general committee of "Better Homes Week."

The members of this committee, twenty in number, consist of the officers, advisory board, and working subcommittees and members, who were appointed by their association, both civic and commercial, to represent them in the work. Represented on this board were appointees of the Atlanta civic clubs.

The guests were met at the entrance to the beautiful banquet hall by Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, president of the Atlanta Woman's club, and Mrs. Newton Wing, general chairman for "Better Homes Week."

The large table was placed in the center of the banquet hall. Arranged in unique form as a centerpiece was an artistic replica of a charming house surrounded by great lawns with winding walks. Trees, shrubbery, pergolas and flowers, portraying in realistic fashion a "better home."

This addition to the dinner party was the contribution of Mr. Odum, of the Dahl Floral company. The toy autos, and miniature furnishings of the "home" were given by the Milton Bradley company.

As an introduction to the evening's entertainment, Mrs. Wing gave a resume of the report submitted to the national board for "Better Homes Week," of which Vice President Coolidge is the guest of honor. The Atlanta celebration was arranged in only three weeks, and yet contained every element required by the national board.

Mrs. Wing stated that Atlanta's model home had been pronounced by people who had seen both celebrations, to be even better than the one shown at Washington, at which President Harding and notables from all over the world, officiated.

Following Mrs. Wing's report, the program was turned over to Mrs. Richardson, who acted as toastmistress. Her remarks were terminated with game and forfeits.

Plans for next year include the building of a number of better homes and apartments for all classes of people, and at least one permanent home which can be used as a show place in one of the parks and in which lectures on home subjects could be given and the equipment of a better home demonstration.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. DeLesseigne's dinner guests were Mrs. C. C. Shipp, of Cordele, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Plage, Mr. Maxwell, of New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Candler Return to Atlanta

Much social interest centers in the return to Atlanta of Mr. and Mrs. Asa G. Candler, Sr., from their wedding trip in the east. They have opened their handsome home on Ponce de Leon avenue in Druid Hills, where they will be at home to their friends.

Mrs. Candler is a woman of charming personality, and is pretty and very magnetic. She is a representative of distinguished Georgia families, through whom she has inherited culture, beauty and executive ability.

The bride will unquestionably make the Candler mansion, over which she will preside as chateaine, one of the socially brilliant centers of the south.

The HOUSEHOLD Edited by Anne Rittenhouse

About Cherries.
The ordinary sweet cherries are not to be cooked. They are for eating, and serving in combination fruit salads. Plain food cherries make a delicious breakfast dish. Another tempting fruit dish for breakfast or light supper is sweet cherries, stored and sliced ripe pineapples.

A sponge cake should accompany this for supper.

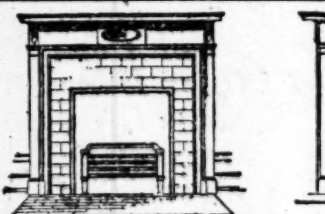

Of all pies, there is none more delicious than "cherry pie, Billy Boy." The luscious fruit blends with the crust and makes it most delectable. Be careful, though, to eat it the day it is baked, as the best cook cannot keep her undercrust dry over night.

Cherry Pie—Use one quart of stoned Morello cherries to one pie. Line a deep pie tin with crust, fill it with the cherries and four tablespoons of sugar. Sprinkle a little flour over this. Cover with a thin upper crust, in which are small openings for the swelling of the fruit. To prevent the juice from escaping, press the edges of the pie crust firmly together, brush the crust lightly with a little milk, and bake pulverized sugar on top when done.

Fairy Sauce—Cream one-third of a cup of butter well. Add one cup of powdered or granulated sugar slowly, mix thoroughly and flavor with a few drops of vanilla or a little nutmeg. A few cherries, crushed, may be added, if desired.

Cherry Roly Poly—A fine dessert is cherry roly poly. Wash, stem and stone about one quart of ripe Morello cherries. Sift one heaping teaspoon of baking powder into two cups of flour. Add one pinch of salt. Cream one tablespoon of butter or lard into the flour, then add enough ice water to make a dough that will roll out. Spread the rolled-out dough with the cherries and four tablespoons of sugar. Roll like a jelly roll, place it in thin muslin, pin securely and boil for forty minutes. ## What Women Wear

BY ANNE RITTENHOUSE

Here's the Sweater That Looks Sleeveless—but Isn't. If your sweater is not sleeveless it must have the sleeveless effect.

says the open-eyed woman who has frequented the country clubs this summer. You will probably have bought your sleeveless sweaters by this time.

she goes on to advise, but if you haven't then it's a clever trick to wear one of the new sweaters made one color in the body and another in the sleeves. The frock with which you wear it must be like the sleeves, and then you give the impression of wearing a sleeveless sweater. It is only when you doff your sweater, revealing a sleeveless frock beneath, that it becomes apparent that your sweater really boasts sleeves.

To be specific, you may have a knitted sweater like the one shown in the sketch—of Egyptian blue body and white sleeves. Then you wear it over a white frock, so that the sleeves of the sweater look as if they belonged to the frock. It's a trick, if you like, and tricks are perhaps not good art, but it's a rather clever trick and may therefore be excused. It's good fashion.

For the most part present-day fashion steers clear of dress that looks like something beside what it is. We hear less of simulated plaits and simulated closings and simulated panels. That word "simulated" used to be a stock in trade with dressmakers and the people wore the descriptions and instructions on paper patterns.

Usually, nowadays, our frocks do up and undo where they look as if they did. Once it seemed to be the test of a dressmaker's skill to hide, by ingeniously placed snappers and hooks and eyes, the actual opening of a frock, though it was quite smart to place a row of buttons and a simulated placket somewhere else on the frock.

This sweater, by the way, closes down the front and the edges of many well-dressed women now is for this type of sweater in preference to the one that fastens at the side. There are some with long tuxedo collars closing at the front at the waistline with a single button.

Let's hope that this new fashion of sweaters with contrasting sleeves won't give the women who knit their own sweaters an inspiration to use up odds and ends of yarn—left over from previous knitting bouts.

SPEAKERS ANNOUNCED FOR CHURCH BARBECUE

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

To Soften Water.
Rock ammonia will soften the water for scrubbing if soda makes your hands rough and hard.

Cherry Pie.
If the bottom crust of the cherry pie is brushed over with white of egg, the juice from the fruit will not sink into the crust and make it soggy.

Shines Them.
The used starch left over on wash-day will make tiles and hearthstones look like new, if used for scrubbing in place of water. It will also keep them clean longer.

Don't Wring Them.
If you are in a hurry to iron white skirts, hang them dripping wet on the line by the belt. The weight of the water will keep the skirt an even edge and prevent shrinking. It will also tend to whiten the garment.

Late Dinner.
If you find the dinner is going to be delayed for some time and the potatoes will have to stay in the boiling water too long, either rice or macaroni, and they will be much more palatable than water-sogged boiled potatoes.

BEAUTY CHATS

By Edna K. Forbes

ANSWERED LETTERS.
Edna P.—The fattening tonic formula will be mailed to you on receipt of a stamped addressed envelope.

Mae H.—An offensive breath will result from either of the following troubles: Imperfect teeth, sluggish digestion, adenoids, or catarrhal tendency. In the case of catarrhal cases are not recognizable as such except by a doctor. A mouth wash will help to disguise the unpleasant odor, but you should find out what is causing the trouble and treat yourself accordingly.

Discouraged—Girls at 15 years of age often feel awkward as you say you do, but it merely is because they are growing into womanhood. You are no different from the others, and you will soon be taking on grace. Keep up the habit of dancing, no matter if you do feel that you are not doing as well as the others. Dancing will help you overcome this trouble more than anything else.

Violet—Douches the eyes when they need it, but do not make a habit of flushing the eyeballs when the eyes are all right. In case of inflammation, eyestrain or weakness, the douche will be as helpful as it is soothing. At such time the eye-cup will be a convenience. Weak salt water or boracic acid in water will be found a healing eye wash.

Audrey St. C.—The change in color of your hair, from black to brown, shows that your scalp is in need of a stimulating treatment. Try massaging it vigorously every day and use a good hair tonic several times each week.

E. M. G.—The bleaching lotion is made by mixing together equal parts ammonia and peroxide of hydrogen. Do not use this bleach to the point of irritation. If you do feel that you are not doing as well as the others, dancing will help you overcome this trouble more than anything else.

Worried Old Lady—Boil all your underclothing in soda water, and after bathing yourself all over, apply a sulphur ointment to your skin. Even with rheumatism you should not stop bathing.

Betty C. Mac—You are in need of so much advice that it would be best for you to send me a stamped self-addressed envelope so that I can mail such information to you.

T. M. B.—At 24 years of age lines in the skin merely indicate that you need to build up. The lines will disappear if you do this. If you are below normal weight, drink plenty of milk, and do everything that you can to encourage your appetite.

A cream massaged into the skin each night will help to build up the tissues and hasten your recovery.

JUNE SALARY CHECKS READY FOR TEACHERS

Atlanta's school teachers Monday began the regular first of the month parade to the business office of the school department to draw their salary checks for June, the last month of the 1922-1923 school year. The checks, amounting to $129,000 for the month, are all made out and waiting for their owners.

The annual pilgrimage of the school teachers to the summer school centers also began Monday. Many teachers left for New York to attend Columbia university. Some will go to Athens to the University of Georgia summer school. The University of Chicago also will have a large representation of Atlanta teachers.

WOMEN SHOULD ACT QUICKLY

When a woman finds herself afflicted with backache, headache, nervousness, dragging-down pains, pain in her side, irregularities and irritability, dark circles appear under the eyes and her complexion gets sallow, she may be sure the underlying cause is some ailment peculiar to her sex. Such women should act quickly and take the great American remedy for such conditions, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and they may be saved years of suffering. For generations this old-fashioned root and herb medicine has been restoring ailing women to health, and it may be relied upon with perfect confidence. —(adv.)

Riddles

BY IRVING BACHELLER
Next Week, "The Ragged Edge"
By Harold MacGrath

The superintendent and his men had a well-planned system for beating the game. In the back meadow two, and sometimes three, of them were always lying in the bushes or on a swath of hay while the others were at work. They slept by turns, one calling the other when his time was up. These conditions were new to Mr. Riddles. They excited his interest. The hay-makers of his boyhood had worked with a mighty zest. These were different. All save Hawkins were foreign born. He learned that day that three of these farm hands had been in the army in France. They had grown accustomed to long periods of idleness, and had not recorded normal habits of work.

Riddles went with the servants that evening in one of the four cars kept for their use, to the village of Coulterville. It was a village of some three thousand inhabitants. He did not care to go to the movie show and the dance which was to follow it in the town hall, so he did a little shopping. After which he went with Hawkins to the big meat and grocery market. There the superintendent introduced him to Sam Bullwether, the chief clerk. Riddles sat down in a comfortable chair with his pipe after Hawkins had left to go to the movie show. For nearly an hour he read the New York paper which he had bought at a book store. Before he had finished his reading Bullwether, who seemed to be getting ready to close the doors and go home.

"Have a cigar—straight from a rich guy," Riddles asked.
"You bet," the clerk answered as he took the long corona which Riddles drew from his pocket. "I never saw one like that before—Percy Rico, I guess. Wait till I look the doors an' we'll set down an' have a smoke before I go home."
When the clerk returned, Riddles remarked: "I suppose there are a good many rich guys around here."
"They've come here an' grabbed the hills an' valleys an' shoved a lot of roofs into the air," the clerk answered as he lit his cigar. "We've got all their trade."
"And purty good prices," Riddles suggested.

"Anything we want to ask—the sky is the limit. They don't spend money; they just shovel it out—like unloadin' a ton o' coal. It's done by hired men—there's so much of it to handle."
"Kind o' heavy work."
"Well, ye see, they don't bother with the marketin'—haven't time. Generally it's the cook or the butler or the housekeeper or the superintendent, an' the bigger the bill the better they like it."
"Of course, they get a rake-off."
"Most o' 'em! They get theirs in cash, too, an' sometimes we have to wait a year for our money an' plenty often we get beat out of it. The swell guys hate to give up. Sometimes, when they pay, you can hear their shrieks for a mile."

Riddles laughed. "I don't know as I blame 'em," the clerk went on. "They've been bled an' they know it—the poor suckers! But it's hard on the poor devils, like me, that's workin' for a salary. The plumber soaked me plenty for a job he done up at the house. The rich guys will pay him anything he asks an' I have to pay the same."
"How is the rich guy to help himself?" Riddles asked. "You fellows fix yer price an' he has to pay. You make the rich man holler, but you break the backs o' the poor."
"The rich is so foolish—they pay more'n they need to," the clerk went on. "Now you take that woman you're workin' for. She's a real nice woman. It's a pleasure to wait on her, but she don't come in here more'n twice in a summer. If she did her own buyin' and used judgment about it, she'd save a lot. The girl comes in every week or so. Say, she's a peach!" The best looking in the whole bunch an' talk just like a human being—an' funny—say, I'd rather talk with her ten minutes than see Carley Chaplin!"

"I wonder why she don't get married," said Riddles.
"Well, sir, I guess she's hard to please. That girl ought to have a real man an' they're all at work these days, all except ol' Waters' boy, Percy. He's just foolin' around here in the country, but he ain't got no show with her."
"Why?"

"Little tin god! Knows it all an' then some more! Nobody likes him. Killed a cow with his big racin' car the other night an' slammed himself into ditch an' busted a front wheel. Had a woman with a starfish face in with him—a kind o' a high stepper from New York, whose husband is in the army an' hasn't got home yet. Hank Thompson picked 'em up and brought 'em to Brown's drug store. They said Percy was half drunk. Only had a few scratches; but she had to go to the hospital. His father paid for the cow and gave Hank $20 to keep his tongue still."

John Galt, Riddles' friend and superintendent, who has seen Harriet but never met her, had requested Riddles to be his ambassador to "the sweetest girl in the world." Riddles found the farm help profiteering on Mr. Martin, and learned in the village that Harriet was ignorant of the disreputable character of Percy Waters.
"That young feller ain't no match for Harriet Martin," the clerk continued. "If she marries him, it'll be because she has to."
"Why should she have to?" Riddles asked.
"Well, I'll tell ye, ol' Waters has money to burn. Percy is the only child an' I shouldn't wonder if the widow Martin was a little hard up. That farm as it's run now would break anybody—give it time enough. Waters may get control of 'em. He owns this store an' the First National bank an' the hardware store an' the Farmers' Supply company an' the Lakeside hotel. High prices don't hurt his feelin's a bit. Over at the Lakeside you have to put up $2.50 for a beefsteak."
"Is there any good reason for that?" Riddles asked.
The clerk smiled and said with a knowing look: "Well, I believe the beef trust owns $400,000 worth of the stock of the hotel company. I hear that they've not the same kind of a clinch on most of the big hotels in America. They handle meat, poultry, eggs, fish an' groceries."

"Wait till I start mine," the clerk answered.
The town clock struck 11. Riddles rose from his chair.
"I'm due at the postoffice door," he remarked. "We've had a good talk."
"Don't say a word of what I've told ye," said the clerk as he let Riddles out of the front door.
"Not a word," Riddles answered.
He waited in front of the postoffice for nearly half an hour before the two Ford cars arrived with their party of industrious fun seekers.

Next evening he found old David Galt sitting by the stove with Sam Bullwether. Galt was a big, stout man with a white mustache and chin lock. He had a large, ruddy face and gray eyes. He whittled a piece of pine as he talked. He was dressed in a black with a low-cut vest, a broad expanse of white shirt front adorned with a diamond stud, and a long frock coat. His old-fashioned low collar held a white string tie.
"I've lived seventy years in this country," he was saying, "and we have found no trouble in maintaining law and order until these radical foreigners came among us. The meanest thing that has happened here in years is the killing at Comers."
"That criminal ought to be punished," said Sam.

"Yes, sir; we should make an example of him. But where is he? He's disappeared like magic. We have offered a reward of $500 for his apprehension, but nothing has come of it."
His talk was interrupted by the entrance of a rugged-looking man dressed in coarse gray clothes under a gray felt hat. His full, sandy beard was streaked with gray. His gray eyes were deep-set under shaggy gray brows. He was an undersized man who walked as if he had been accustomed to heavy burdens.
"Hello, Silas!" said David Galt in a cheerful tone. "I hope you're going to give us something toward the new community house."
"Not a cent!" snapped the newcomer. "We're taxed to death now."
"But think of what we get for it," said Galt.
"What?—I'd like to know!"
"Better health, more comfort, good roads, good government."
"I don't call it good government when a man can kill another an' get away without bein' punished. As to yer roads, they're nothin' but a thoroughfare for fools who waste their time on 'em. As to health an' comfort, there's less of it than there ever was in this community with the automobiles racin' an' tootin' an' killin' folks."

The speaker had gathered his beard in his hand was hanging on to it as if it were the tether of his disposition. Turning to Sam Bullwether with a look of injury, the newcomer said:
"I want a pound o' crackers an' a half a pound o' cheese."
"Robbery!" he growled as he paid for the package. He retired from the store without speaking again. Mr. Galt followed him with a smile and a wink.
"That was old Silas Gaylor," said Sam. "He's a queer one. Worth at least a quarter of a million dollars. Used to run a sawmill. Grows every time he gives up a cent."
Just then Ab Risley, the village drunkard, came into the store and sat down.
"What you been doin' to old Silas Gaylor?" he asked of Sam Bullwether.
"Been chargin' him 20 cents for some crackers and cheese?"
"The way he's growin' is somethin' awful," said Risley. "I'm glad we've got high prices. I like to hear these old dudes holler. It's got 'em all on a cracker an' cheese diet. Maybe it'll kill 'em off. It does me good to hear the skinflints holler. I tell ye, me an' Rat Waters have done a lot for this place."

Mr. Risley referred to Erastus Winnie, the wealthy merchant and innkeeper. It was a habit of his to speak of "me an' Rat Waters."
"How so?" Mr. Bullwether asked.
"We give folks somethin' to talk about. Now, I've got an idea that ought to be a help. It beats the league o' nations all holler. It'll put a stop to war absolutely."
"What's your idea?" the clerk inquired.
"Make a law that nobody under forty can fight in a war. That'll kill off the old duffers that have lived long enough. Then every year we'll have an expectation day, when we can all go an' spit on their graves."

New York, July 2.—The government's crop report was followed by a severe break in the cotton market here this evening. The condition of the 1923 crop was reported as being very close to the 1922 crop, with the figures showing an increase of 12.6 per cent in acreage with an area of 38,287,000 acres under cultivation, as of June 25, was a decided surprise to the trade. Owing to this unexpected large increase in acreage, the government's report gave a crop indication of 11,412,000 bales or very nearly 700,000 bales more than the average of the private reports recently issued. These figures led to more or less general liquidation which broke the price of October contracts to 23.35 or 74 points below Saturday's closing figures and the lowest price touched since the rally to 25.50 for October on June 23. There was a good deal of scale down during the decline, believed to be partly for trade account, however, and last prices showed rallies of 23 to 27 points on covering with October closing at 24.14. The general market closed at net declines of 23 to 46 points.

Trading was quiet before the report was issued, but prices showed a tendency to sag off owing to a feeling that bullish government figures on the yield outlook should be discounted, poor Liverpool cables and reports of continued good weather in the south. There was general or aggressive pressure on the foreign decline but prices showed net losses of some 20 to 40 points before the report was issued. The selling movement broadened as soon as the unexpected large acreage and indicated yield statement was issued and the market was very nervous and unsettled during the afternoon. Selling on the reports was promoted by a belief that the crop had made good progress since June 25, and that the condition in Texas was above the ten-year average, also that the estimated acreage was the biggest on record. Houses with southern contracts, particularly New Orleans, were among the more prominent sellers on the decline. Port receipts to date were 6,327. United States port stocks 283,250. Exports 20,000, making 4,601,000 so far this season.

New Orleans, July 2.—The second monthly crop report by the government caused heavy selling of cotton today, mainly because of the breaking acreage figures it carried. Before the report was issued the tendency was to decline under a favorable opinion of weather conditions in the belt over Sunday. Prior to the crop figures prices were about 20 to 30 points under the close of last week, at their lowest, but following the report the decline was widened to 50 to 75 points. Shippers were active in the late trading and the close showed net losses on the day of 24 to 44 points. July traded as low as 23.47 and closed at a range of 23.70 to 23.75; October traded at 23.47 and closed at 23.42 to 23.44. The more active months were 1 to 17 points up around the opening, in sympathy with the cotton market, but due to support was soon withdrawn and selling increased under private reports of favorable rains at a number of points in Texas. Liquidation on the long side furnished a rather liberal supply of contracts from then on until the time of the bureau report.

The condition figures of 69.9 per cent of normal just about met bullish expectations, but the trade was not prepared for the increase of 12.6 per cent in the acreage, the average private estimate of 65.5 per cent, the increase at about 8 per cent. Traders who sold on the report pointed out that 38,287,000 acres under cotton was the greatest area in the south ever planted to the staple. It indicated crop of 11,412,000 bales was larger than expected because of the large acreage. The average of private figures for the indicated crop was around 10,750,000 bales.

DEMPSEY-GIBBONS FIGHT IN DANGER

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Great Falls, Mont., July 2.—The once dreamed of $100,000 heavy-weight championship fight between Jack Dempsey and Tommy Gibbons at Shelby July 4, tonight hung in the balance with Jack Kearns, manager of the world's champion, holding the key to the situation and every indication pointing to a complete collapse of the battle.

The crisis came late this afternoon when Major J. E. Lane, trustee of the promoters, admitted that the $100,000 due Dempsey on his $300,000 guarantee not later than midnight tonight had not been raised, and that he saw no prospects of raising it.

Calling the newspaper correspondents into a hotel room, Major Lane told them that any statement calling off the bout must come from Jack Kearns or Loy J. Moloney, of Great Falls, who signed the articles of agreement when the match was made in Chicago early in the spring. Moloney declined to remain in the room while the announcement was being made to the newspaper men, although he was twice requested by Major Lane to stay. Moloney edged out of the room, saying that he probably would have a statement to issue later.

Kearns, who has held out for the complete fulfillment of Dempsey's contract from the start, said he would not have any statement to make until midnight, at which time the limit for the payment of Dempsey's final $100,000 installment expires. The heavy-weight champion's manager gave threatening indications, however, that he would leave town with the champion unless the money was paid.
Major Lane declined to reveal how much money had been raised toward the $100,000 fund and also declined to issue a formal statement after he and his associates announced their retirement from all connection with financing the fight. His remarks were made informally.

"The committee which Friday accepted the job of attempting to raise the final installment of $100,000 due Dempsey tonight at midnight has been unable to procure the needed money," he said. "Our mission is ended and we are retiring from any participation in the financing of the fight."

Unable to Stage Fight.

"It is my opinion that this fight can not be held unless the $100,000 is raised before midnight. I do not know if it can be done. I doubt it."

"There was not sufficient time left us for raising the money. The people to whom we looked for money evidently do not feel like coming to the rescue at this time, and I am not sure that I can be done. I doubt it."

George H. Stanton, the Great Falls banker, who personally advanced $50,000 two weeks ago to make up the second $100,000 due Dempsey, declared he had no statement to make.

"All I care to say is that some of the men we had depended upon to contribute to this fight evidently got cold feet after they had given us their pledge to help," Mr. Stanton said.

Then the tall bank president hurried across the hotel lobby to the headquarters of the Great Falls Commercial club to stop the sale of tickets.

Champion Unconcerned.

While the sporting world was in suspense over the $100,000 payment there was one spot in Great Falls where normally ruled quietly and untroubled. That spot was Dempsey's training camp on the banks of the Missouri river just over the hills at the edge of town. There was not a whisper or a ripple in camp to indicate that the champion was in any perturbed over the frantic efforts to raise the money which his manager demanded.

Jack was willing to talk, but the fight or the $100,000 seemed to be the least of his worries. His conversation easily slipped into banter and conjecture on questions utterly foreign to the ring. He seemed to be just what Jack Kearns had declared him—"a finished fighter, at the top of his form, and ready for Gibbons." The titleholder declared he was through training and was in perfect shape.

"I took a light bit of roadwork this morning," he said. "Tomorrow morning I plan to take an easy walk. We won't go to Shelby until Wednesday morning."

Down in his heart, it is known that Dempsey is ready to battle Gibbons for the sum he already has received, $220,000—but he relies implicitly on the instruction of Manager Kearns on all questions of finance—and Kearns' is the last word. If Kearns tells Dempsey to break camp tomorrow and leave town Dempsey will do that very thing.

Sea Battle Staged Between U. S. Cutter And Rum-Runners

Los Angeles, Cal., July 2.—A rum-runner, carrying 100 cases of liquor, was captured near here yesterday after it had opened fire on a pursuing coast guard cutter. The cutter returned the fire and the rum crew surrendered. No one was injured. Federal officers began a search of Long Beach for several women said to be implicated in a rum-running plot. The officers believe the rum-runner came from a Mexican port and was attempting to land when sighted.

About 6,000 fires were started in national forests during 1921.

Senator Couzens Continues War On Volstead Act

Detroit, Mich., July 2.—Declaring an appetite for mild beer of 2.12 to 5 per cent alcoholic content is no worse than an appetite for tobacco, tea or coffee, Senator James Couzens today reiterated his advocacy for modification of the prohibition act. "The Volstead act is my issue hereafter," Senator Couzens asserted. "I don't figure on any man denying me the right to satisfy my appetite for tobacco. Beer with a limit of 5 per cent alcohol will satisfy the appetite but is not intoxicating."

The senator's statement was made in reply to a speech recently by his opponent, U. S. Senator Wm. C. Bradley, N. J., who declared that to legalize 5 per cent beer would be to recognize that an appetite for alcohol still exists. That "appetite" should be killed, Mr. Ferris asserted.

200 PASSENGERS ON WRECKED SHIP TAKEN TO SAFETY

Vigo, Spain, July 2.—(By the Associated Press.)—Two hundred passengers of the British steamer High-land Loch were rescued within fifteen minutes after the steamer struck the Carrabederos rocks today. Soon afterward, however, the vessel was refloated without much trouble and towed here where it will be repaired.
The passengers will continue their voyage on another steamer.

TESTIMONY RESUMED ON PATENTS SEIZURE

Wilmington, Del., July 2.—Francis P. Garvan, former alien property custodian and now president of the Chemical Foundation, Inc., resumed his testimony for his concern today to the government's suit to compel the foundation to return German dye patents and trade marks seized during the war by the government and sold to it. He was examined about the investigation he had made as alien property custodian, of the extent of enemy holdings in the chemical industry of the United States and the relations thereto of United States patents issued to Germany.

Mr. Garvan enumerated the company whose records were searched; also the records of government agencies having any information and the extensive literature on the subject in England, France and this country. Investigators also had access to diplomatic correspondence and to communications seized by the navy when it took over the Sayville wireless plant.

Mr. Garvan identified 48 documents that had been studied. They comprised technical publications, official reports and letters to and from Herman Meitz and Dr. Albert, and Ambassador Bernstorff and Captain Boydel, of the German embassy at Washington.
